WALKS INTO FLAMES

Tough Texan Snuffs Wild Oil Well Fire

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—A wild oil well fire which has blazed almost a week in the northern bushland was snuffed out today by Red Adair, recognized as the world's foremost oil well fireman.

Adair, 46, flown to the site of the blazing Blueberry well from Algiers by the Sun Oil Company, walked into the flames clad in an asbestos suit.

He chained down the "Christmas tree" pipe apparatus at the wellhead which had been loose and leaking.

This cut off most of the wellhead flames. The big Texan firefighter then used soda and mud to pack around the base of the wellhead apparatus to snuff out the fire.

Then he simply turned a valve which stopped the flow of oil and gas from below and the flames died away at Blueberry 29 where the fire sprang up Friday.

It had been planned to use a dynamite blast to snuff out the flames if this method had failed.

One awe-struck roughneck who witnessed the performance said: "If Adair is sent to Hell he won't burn."

It was the second asbestos suit walk into the flames in as many days for the barrel-chested Texan. He took a first look at the blaze belching from the well among a maze of wellhead pipes Wednesday.

Rifle Used In Bid to Blow Valve

Adair walked into the blaze after he and Sid White of Jasper, Alta., another top fire fighter, were only partially successful in attempts to redirect the flames by means of a rifle.

The fire, which started Friday, was burning steadily, sending gigantic fireballs up every three minutes.

Adair and White first tried to shoot off the main valve with the high-powered rifle.

They crouched behind an aluminum shield taking turns pumping bullets at the valve, less than half the size of a man's fist. They wanted to blow off the valve, on the side of the main stem, so the flames would shoot out sideways. They failed to shoot off the valve but managed to open a hole in the pipe lower down.

Adair then walked into the flames carrying a six-foot shield of corrugated aluminum in one hand to ward off the flames. Stooping to the ground to avoid the fire balls, he used a 30-foot-long pipe to turn off the valve as far as it would go. He attached a cable to a feeder pipe which was then pulled away by a bulldozer.

M. E. Austin, Sun field supervisor, said the company has spent about $100,000 fighting the fire.

"I don't know what Adair is going to charge us; but he's worth it."

SPACE TRIP STILL SET SATURDAY

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The fine weather over Cape Canaveral is expected to end within a few days but it should hold good through Saturday to enable astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. to make his orbit around earth that day, it was announced today.

Glenn was ready to go and the countdown was proceeding toward the Saturday target date. The forecast of bad weather ahead made America's space scientists even more eager to get him off.

RUSK AT OAS

Searing Attack On Castro

(Times News Service)

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay—The United States in a searing indictment of Castro communism appealed to the other American states today for a four-pronged counter-attack to save the hemisphere from the ravages of global Red assault.

State Secretary Dean Rusk told the inter-American foreign ministers' conference considering the threat of Cuba's communism that the Americas need a shield to protect democratic processes if the Alliance for Progress program is to succeed in its attack on the hemisphere's economic ills.

Rusk called on the 19 American states to (1) declare Castro communism incompatible with the inter-American system, (2) exclude the Havana government from participation in the Organization of American States OAS, (3) interrupt the "limited but significant flow of trade between Cuba and the rest of the hemisphere," and (4) set in motion individual and communal acts of defence "against the various forms of political and indirect aggression mounted against the hemisphere."

OPPOSED BY BRAZIL

Rusk's speech came at a critical moment in the conference as Brazil and several other countries pushed a drive to soften hemispheric retaliation against Cuban communism.

The Brazilian campaign indicated there was little hope of unanimous decisive action by the 20 American states sitting in judgment on the Havana government.

Rusk labelled Castro and the Cuban Communists "smirking sycophants" of Moscow and declared:

"What we cannot accept and will never accept is the use of Cuba as a means through which extra-continental powers seek to break up the inter-American system, to overthrow governments of other countries and to destroy the autonomous democratic revolution of the hemisphere.

"The Castro regime has extended the global battle to Latin America. It has supplied Communism with a bridgehead in the Americas, and it has thereby brought the entire hemisphere into the front line of the struggle between Communism and democracy. It has turned itself into an arsenal for arms and ammunition from the Communist world."

'TRADE PARTNERSHIP'

JFK Outlines Tariff Program

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Kennedy today unveiled his demands on Congress for vast tariff-bargaining power, describing them as stepping stones to "an open trade partnership" between North America and western Europe to frustrate Communist dreams of shattering the West through trade wars.

"It is time now to write a new chapter in the evolution of the Atlantic community," Kennedy said in a 5,000-word trade message requesting power to eliminate U.S. tariffs on a broad range of industrial goods and to reduce other rates by half during a period of five years or more.

Reductions would be reciprocal. Negotiations would be directed mainly at the Common Market but bargains made would be extended to all the free world. However, where big traders, such as Canada, obtained major benefits, the U.S. would expect "compensating concessions" in return, Kennedy said.

"Nuisance" tariffs—five per cent or less — would be withdrawn. This would be of particular help to Canadian exporters of aluminum, copper and nickel.

But officials said the U.S. would reserve the right to refuse to negotiate on such highly-sensitive products as oil, lead, zinc and certain agricultural products strongly protected by import quotas and other curbs. They said this reservation would be used sparingly.

Canada gets into the U.S. oil market without quotas. Other suppliers are restricted.

WOULD AID INDUSTRIES

Financial aid would be given to U.S. workers and industries He listed payments for workers who lose jobs and tax benefits for industries.

In negotiations with the Common Market—which Kennedy expects Britain will enter—the U.S. would seek complete elimination of duties on those categories of goods in which the U.S. and the Common Market combined supply at least 80 per cent of world trade. Officials said these would include automobiles, trucks, aircraft, heavy industrial machinery, electrical equipment and some consumer goods.

U.S. exports of these goods to the Common Market and Britain currently average about $2,000,000,000 a year. Total U.S. exports are about $20,000,000,000 annually. The Common Market is the biggest U.S. customer. Canada is second.

Kennedy said his administration would be negotiating not only for the U.S. but would be seeking to reduce Common Market walls for Canada, Japan and other trading partners.

TWO FERRY CONTRACTS AWARDED

Contracts for two new B.C. government ferries have been awarded, according to today's Speech from the Throne, although shipyard officials said they had not been notified.

The Throne Speech said the contracts, for ferries to serve the Departure Bay Horseshoe Bay route formerly operated by the Black Ball line, "have already been awarded."

It was earlier virtually assured that the contracts, worth $7,000,000, would both go to Victoria Machinery Depot, lowest bidder.

However, Harold Husband, president of the company, said he had not yet been notified of the contract decision.

Als Get Stephens

MONTREAL — All-America quarterback Sandy Stephens of the University of Minnesota was set today to sign with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

New Span At Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Construction engineers clasped hands 354 feet above the icy Niagara River in a brief ceremony marking the completion of understructure work on a $16,000,000 bridge Wednesday.

Scheduled for completion in September, the bridge will link the New York State Thurway with the Queen Elizabeth Highway into Ontario.

NATO Aid to Portugal Under Fire by India

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—India said today NATO's support is enabling Portugal to maintain colonial control over Angola and other African territories.

Indian Ambassador C. S. Jha told the 16th United Nations General Assembly colonialism in its "most virulent" form is being practised by Portugal in Angola and "it has got to go."

Jha said that of the 15 NATO allies, only Norway has announced it will refuse arms to Portugal. Jha maintained that all the evidence indicates Portugal used NATO arms to subdue uprisings in its big West African territories.

He quoted various sources to support his statement that wholesale slaughter had been inflicted on the Angolans by Portuguese troops.

India, which pushed Portugal out of Goa and two other small Portugal territories on the Indian sub-continent last month, believed that what is happening in Angola is part of a world-wide collapse of colonialism and it cannot be stopped, Jha said.

'MOMENT OF WEAKNESS'

Teacher Taped Child's Mouth

TORONTO (CP)—A teacher who taped a seven-year-old pupil's mouth shut said the girl was a "constant chatterer" and that she resorted to the tape in a "moment of weakness."

The child's mother kept her daughter and two other children home from school today and said she would continue to do so until she receives an apology and assurance that the incident will not be repeated.

The girl has been under psychiatric treatment and is awaiting admittance to a hospital for mentally-disturbed children.

Teacher Marilyn Campbell said although it was no fault of the girl's, she constantly disrupted classroom activities.

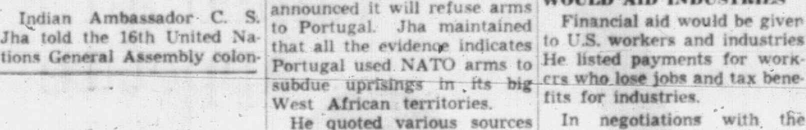
"She feels she just has to talk all the time," Miss Campbell said. The teacher said she wasn't in a very receptive mood Tuesday when the incident happened.

"I certainly regret it now."

A school trustee said he will ask for an investigation.

"I'm shocked to hear that any teacher on the Toronto board of education would resort to such methods," the trustee said.

Principal Sinclair Robertson said he wasn't planning any disciplinary action against Miss Campbell.



Whut Mister Rusk wants is t' make them Cuban heels toe th' line.

Rate Cut To Be 'Very Substantial'

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Government plans for a single agency to control electric power in B.C. were disclosed today in the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of the provincial legislature.

It will be called the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority and will be responsible for the generation and distribution of all public power in the province.

The Throne Speech did not say if this means the complete amalgamation of B.C. Electric and the B.C. Power Commission.

But presumably this will happen; or at least the two Crown agencies will be administered as "wings" of the new overall authority.

Premier Bennett said legislation setting up the authority will be introduced after his budget speech Feb. 9.

Power dominated the speech, read this afternoon at the official opening ceremony of the session by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

It also disclosed plans for even bigger reductions in electric light bills than expected. The rate cuts, throughout the province, will be "very substantial" and will come in April.

Also in the field of power, the Throne Speech predicted a construction start on the Columbia River project early this year, and assumed it is a foregone conclusion that the federal government will give in to Premier Bennett and allow sale of power benefits to the U.S.

Bigger Education Grants

There will also be big developments in the field of education. The speech predicts bigger grants to universities and school districts, expansion of vocational training, creation of a dental faculty at the University of B.C., and expansion of medical facilities.

Other Throne Speech highlights include:

- A new department of water resources;
- Promise that a royal commission into workmen's compensation will be set up;
- Unspecified legislation on wages paid in the province, believed to be an increase in the Minimum Wage Act;
- "Substantial" increases in grants to Victoria College and the University of B.C., as well as to local school districts;
- New laws affecting administration of municipalities, implementing recommendations of the Chant Royal Commission on Education, revising the organization of magistrate's courts, planning celebration of Canada's centenary in 1967;
- Bigger spending on tourist promotion, housing for elderly citizens, farm assistance;
- Expansion of hospitals, parks, and improvements to Oakalla prison farm;
- Bigger revenues from mining, pipelines and the PGE railway.

Speculation on Power Head

The Throne Speech promised plenty of debate this session on power.

The most far-reaching move will be the creation of the new overall power authority, which has already touched off speculation as to who will head it—Dr. H. L. Keenleyside of B.C. Hydro or Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of B.C. Electric.

There was no mention in the speech of the promised change-over in Greater Victoria, where B.C. Hydro was to take over all B.C. Electric operations in April.

This plan may now have been discarded in favor of the province-wide takeover of public power by the new agency.

The Throne Speech said the authority would "facilitate" the promised rate reductions and also "improve even more the administrative efficiency of the Crown agencies involved"—B.C. Hydro and B.C. Electric.

"This authority will be assigned responsibility for the generation and distribution of all public power within the province for construction of a provincial power grid, and for the consignment of power to a national grid when required," said the speech.

Creation of the new department of water resources is in recognition of the importance of the field and the "high professional status" of the present water rights branch, said the speech.

The department will still be under the jurisdiction of the present lands and forests department, of which Ray Williston is minister, but it will be called the department of lands, forests and water resources.

This will mean appointment of a new deputy minister, probably present water rights comptroller A. F. Paget.

In the field of education "substantial increases" in grants to the universities and school districts were promised, together with new vocational training facilities at Nanaimo, Kelowna, Prince George, Nelson and Vancouver.

Money will be allotted in the budget for the new dental faculty at UBC.

Rumors were circulating that the gale which struck three days ago had sunk the schooner Meg Merriles, on her way from Barkley Sound to Victoria, in the Race Rocks area; but there was no way of confirming them.

* * *

A very disappointing gold dust shipment of only $2,700 left via the steamer Cortes for San Francisco. Mail was also light. There were 20 passengers.

* * *

The jury in the embezzlement trial of former colony treasurer George T. Gordon found him guilty on two of three counts, not guilty on the other.

* * *

The schooner Nonpareil sailed for the Stikeen River via the inlets of the northwest coast of British Columbia. Also headed for a trading expedition in the same area is the steamer Labouchere, which intends to leave next week.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

DES MOINES, Iowa—A 125-pound defendant in a divorce suit described his wife Wednesday as a "250-pound battleship" but denied that he willingly deserted her.

Instead, he explained in a written answer to her divorce petition, he was "glad to get away from her" because:

"The defendant is small and an individual of not great physical strength. The plaintiff is a female of great physical strength, violent temper and a prizefighter of the first rank who gave the defendant two severe beatings before he, recognizing that discretion was the best part of valor, took himself away to preserve his own health, physical safety and mental order."

The answer was filed in district court by William Wheaton, an unemployed machinist.

TORONTO — An endurance test billed as "Canada's first twistathon" ended Wednesday after 62 hours and the winners didn't even know each other.

Both Florence Gardner, 18, and Jimmy Livingstone, 20, lost their partners early when they were unable to keep up.

They joined forces and won a $350 prize, a watch each and—for Jimmy—a suit and six months of free haircuts.

* * *

SWANSEA, Wales — The 60-year-old match between the Devil and St. Mary's Church ended here Wednesday when the building on which the Devil's statue stood was pulled down.

The contest began in 1899 when an architect, having failed to get the job of designing the church, erected a building nearby with the Devil's effigy on top.

The architect said the "Devil" would see the destruction of St. Mary's. During the Second World War the church was hit by a bomb, while "old Nick" escaped unscathed.

But Wednesday the four-foot statue was sent to an antique dealer.

LANSING, Mich. — "I can't wear sports shirts or short-sleeved shirts in summer — it's very embarrassing," said Sen. Charles Blondy, a state representative from Detroit.

Blondy has a picture of an Indian girl tattooed on his right arm. The smiling Pocahontas still stands out almost as showy as when Blondy had her needled in as a youth of 19.

That's one of the reasons Blondy introduced a bill in the state Senate Tuesday to forbid the tattooing of minors.

"A young fellow doesn't think," he said. "He gets tattooed and then its embarrassing in later life."

* * *

LEICESTER, England — A housewife decided Tuesday not to sell the Victoria Cross, the Commonwealth's highest medal for bravery, won by her late husband in the Second World War.

Mrs. Janet Hannah said she made her decision because "I am tired of all the worry and publicity my family has received."

"The medal will stay in my possession for life now."

. . . THRONE SPEECH

The royal commission into workmen's compensation is the result of continued pressure from labor groups throughout B.C. It is expected to examine the financing and coverage of the present Workmen's Compensation Act.

The throne speech noted that there had been a "great degree of harmony" in the labor field during the past year.

It made no specific forecasts of labor legislation, except for this somewhat enigmatic reference to wages:

"You will be asked to consider at this session measures designed to better ensure the payment of wages of employees."

It also made no mention of wages for civil servants, who are seeking a general increase this year.

There will be amendments to the Municipal Act, but the speech said only that they "will assist in the improvement of municipal administration."

3,500,000 Visitors to Parks

The Throne Speech said that provincial parks last year attracted a record 3,500,000 visitors, and were expanded by donations of 1,000 acres of land.

Value of the tourist industry also hit a new record of $115,000,000.

The government plans to expand its system of providing regional grants to assist in tourist promotion, a scheme launched last year by the recreation department.

Although no specific sites were named, the Throne Speech said there are plans in B.C. for 30 new hospitals to provide 1,800 more beds.

It did not say the government will start building a new Victoria mental health centre this year, which was expected, although it said "progress has been recorded" in the project which will be based on "the latest concept" of treatment.

Hints that provincial revenues held up better than expected last year were also contained in the speech.

It referred specifically to a record year in mining development, to an anticipated "marked" increased in royalties from oil and gas projects as a result of a new crude oil pipeline from the Peace River country to the coast, and to "increased revenues" from the PGE.

Beach Group Seeks Answer On Lifeguards

Victoria and Saanich councils Wednesday were asked to decide whether lifeguards should be retained at Elk, Beaver and Thetis Lakes this summer.

Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee posed the question after it was pointed out, some $4,800 of its $23,400 budget was earmarked for lifeguards.

Both Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Coun. Joseph Casey attacked the expenditure. Ald A. W. Toone argued that lifeguards should be retained.

"Isn't there a limit as to how far we can protect the public?" demanded Ald. Edgelow. He said he could not recall any drownings at the beaches.

"If the city accepts responsibility at one beach, they should do it for all beaches," he said.

Coun. Casey said the expenditure amounted to 20 per cent of the budget.

"The people we are protecting are the people who are paying for this," countered Ald. Toone. "I agree . . . we should have a guard at every beach. In the meantime, let's carry on where we can."

However, the question was referred to the two councils for direction.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

Sohan Singh, 2844 Blackwood, $15 for going through red light.

David S. Sutton, 943 Hampshire, $29 for failing to yield right of way.

Objective Neared

DUNCAN—Eighty per cent of a $3,000 target was raised in Duncan and District Retarded Children Association's first drive for founds.

The public subscribed $2,409 of which 10 per cent will be earmarked for research, the association said.

Government, Timbermen Hosts to ECM

The B.C. government and the lumber industry will host a special trade mission from the nations of the European Common Market this year.

The ECM visit was disclosed today in the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of the B.C. legislature.

The speech said it should provide a stimulus to B.C. export trade.

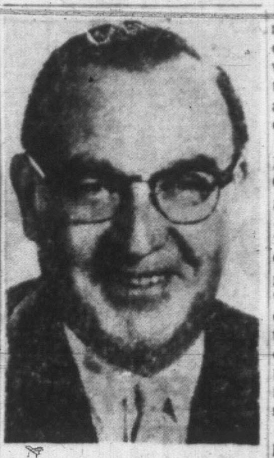
Another trade project announced in the speech is a third B.C. Trade Fair, planned for the spring of 1964.

Canadians Aboard Missing Aircraft

TRENTON, Ont. (UPI)—A twin-engined charter airplane carrying two Canadians and an American textile expert was presumed to have crashed today en route from Boston to Ottawa.

An RCAF spokesman identified those on board as John Rhude of Scarboro, Ont., the pilot; Rod M. Rickard, 27, of Ottawa, co-pilot, and Professor Jacob Fredericks of Lowell, Mass., an internationally known textile authority and the lone passenger.

B.C. Still Confident Of Power Sale Victory



BATTLE LINES have been drawn for an all-out fight for the California governorship between incumbent Democrat Edmund G. Brown and Richard M. Nixon. Brown formally announced his candidacy for re-election Wednesday night at a $100-a-plate dinner which raised more than $175,000 for his campaign.

The British Columbia government today exuded supreme confidence of winning its battle with Ottawa on power sales to the United States and predicted a start on Columbia River dam construction early this year.

"Early ratification by the Parliament of Canada of the Columbia River Treaty, together with the completion of arrangements for purchase by the United States of the British Columbia share of new power generated in the United States will enable my government to call tenders for construction of the necessary works without delay," said the Speech from the Throne, read at the opening of the new legislative session.

This obviously assumes the premier will come out on top of Ottawa, which has so far refused to allow sale of the downstream benefits.

The speech said British Columbia will have spent $6,000,000 on Columbia engineering by March 31.

"As a result of these studies my government will be in a position to proceed early this year with actual construction of the required dams, control structures and other facilities required," said the speech.

The premier's plan is to use the money from the U.S. power sales to finance the three Columbia dams, at Mica Creek, Arrow and Duncan Lakes.

"The resultant production of extremely low cost power at site within B.C. will be of immeasurable benefit to our people for generations to come, and in combination with speedy development of the Peace River will place B.C. in an unrivalled position to furnish vast blocks of hydro-electric power to new industries within the province," the Throne Speech said.

'TWO-RIVER' POLICY

The Speech also made it clear B.C. is staying with its "two-river" power policy development of both the Columbia and Peace rivers at the same time.

"My government's policy will continue in the future, as it has done in the past, to stress simultaneous development of the two rivers," it said.

It pointed out that some construction contracts for the Peace have already been awarded. (These are for test tunnels at the damsite.)

Tenders for additional work now are being called, it added.

Winners of the weekly tournament conducted by the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club were: Section 1—1, Otto Leesment and Les Stewart; 2, Audrey Jorgensen and Anne Lewis; 3, Velma Acres and Jim Duprau; 4, Elizabeth Warren and Joe Lukas; 5, Molly Collins and Freda Small.

Cuba Gets Freighter

HAVANA (Reuters) — The 7,800-ton vessel City of Detroit arrived here under tow Tuesday—the second of seven former Canadian cargo ships purchased by Cuba for its merchant fleet.

JFK Backs Checking Of Militia Speeches

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy says the defence department should continue its "very valuable policy" of requiring military men to get advance clearance of their public speeches.

The president told his press conference he favored the system that provides civilian control of the military "and the co-ordination of speeches which interpret government policy."

The result is "the United States speaks with force and strength."

At the same time, Kennedy gave his blessing to an investigation by a special Senate subcommittee into the defence department's policy on censorship.

Charges by Senator Strom Thurmond (Dec. SC) that the defence department has been "muzzling the military" on anti-Communist statements set off the current Senate investigation.

Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, vigorously defended the present speech clearance procedure Wednesday.

Lemnitzer, the top ranking United States military officer, told the committee he submits his own speeches for advance checking and welcomes the chance. Like Kennedy, he viewed it as part of the tradition that civilians rule the military.

Lemnitzer's testimony followed that of army Lt.-Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau. He said censors had ordered that many anti-Communist phrases cut from his speech texts or suggested cuts which he invariably made, even though he disagreed.

He said he sometimes wondered about the censors' motives, but the changes "never prevented me from getting across my basic message".

7 Patients Die

TOKYO (AP)—Fire early today destroyed a Tokyo suburban hospital caring for 53 bed patients. Seven were burned to death.

ULTIMATUM TO REBELS BY DE GAULLE

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle has told the Algerian rebels to sign an agreement with France now or be left out of the reconstruction of an independent Algeria, it was learned today.

News of the ultimatum leaked out here shortly after De Gaulle's government put the finishing touches on new plans to squelch increasing terrorism by the right-wing secret army organization (OAS) which opposes his Algeria policy.

HISTORIC SPACE FLIGHT DRAWS NEAR

Will He Make It Home Before Dark?

Others More Worried About Glenn's Safety

By JOHN LEAR

(First in a series of two special articles.)

If the weather is right and the furies that govern the firing of rockets are willing, the great American expedition to the moon will make its first trial run around the earth this coming Saturday morning.

ASTRONAUT Col. John H. Glenn gets check-out in Mercury space capsule trainer at Cape Canaveral.

Lt.-Col. John H. Glenn of the U.S. Marines will start the voyage from Florida on the nose of an Atlas missile with one instruction to override all others—

"Be sure to come home before dark."

To achieve his maximum purpose, Col. Glenn must orbit the planet thrice. Each orbit will last 90 minutes. Three orbits will keep the colonel in the sky for 4½ hours. That means he'll be gone almost half the visible day.

The tiny space cabin the colonel will ride was designed to parachute into the water. Although a dozen or more naval vessels will be strung over thousands of square miles of Atlantic Ocean, waiting and watching for him, the cabin isn't likely to drop just alongside one of them.

Light Must Be Good

As much as an hour can be expected to pass between the time the colonel comes down and the time he is picked off the waves by his rescuers. Finding him will be easier if the light is good.

But all the while that the search proceeds, the Earth will be turning eastward, carrying the colonel and the sea around him and the vessels on it steadily into the approaching dusk.

These natural circumstances, familiar to us all in our own daily lives, will be the fundamental determinant of Colonel Glenn's historic adventure.

All sorts of things can happen to delay the trip. There may be engine trouble with the rocket. Clouds may be too thick at the wrong spots. Unexpectedly strong winds may blow up.

A late start could force the colonel to shorten his flight, in advance, to two orbits or perhaps even to one orbit.

Or he could get away promptly and yet be ordered down at the end of one or two orbits because bad weather was forecast for the sea surface onto which he would fall should he stay up longer.

Pleased With One

To be called back after two orbits might make Colonel Glenn feel somewhat like a monkey, for Enos, the African chimp, performed that feat last year. To return at the end of only one orbit would certainly disappoint the colonel keenly. But the scientists on the earth below him, watching his reactions en route, would be pleased with just one orbit.

The parabolic flights of Commander Alan B. Shepard, Jr., and Captain Virgil Grissom included only five minutes of weightlessness, the gravity-free state that is thought to be the greatest psychological hazard confronting man in exploration of interplanetary space. One orbit would provide 90 minutes of possibly revolutionary data about the human organism in this unearthly new environment.

The Russian Yuri Gagarin completed an orbit of the earth with no adverse consequences we have heard of. His countryman, Gherman Titov, got sick sometime during a day-and-night-long circling of the planet. How Titov was, or how long he was sick, or when the sickness came upon him, or under what circumstances, the Russians have not told us.

Fundamental?

Was Titov's sickness like seasickness, which affects different individuals differently? Can it be put aside as an aberration that space pilot candidates can be screened for? Or is it a fundamental biological derangement that all earthlings would suffer—something that would have to be corrected for by creating artificial gravity in all spaceships?

Colonel Glenn will be literally wired to give a scientific answer to this question. Delicate instruments will be fastened to his body with adhesive tape and connected to an automatic radio broadcasting set that will send a steady flow of readings to 18 listening posts dotted across the Atlantic, Africa, the Indian Ocean, Australia, the Pacific Ocean, Mexico and the United States. His heart beat, his breathing rate, his body temperature will be ticked off repeatedly as he circles the loop of his orbit between 100 and 150 miles up.

One big window is conveniently placed beside the couch in which the colonel must remain strapped throughout his trip, for he will be able to move only his head and his hands to any appreciable extent.

Pure Oxygen

He will breathe 100 per cent oxygen, considerably purer stuff than he breathes on earth, and he will have a choice of breathing it through pipes leading into his tight-fitting space suit or opening the visor of his space helmet and breathing the cabin atmosphere.

He will be talking to ground crews most of the time, and using his hands to push various control buttons, valves and levers.

Should anything go wrong with the automatic mechanism that maintains normal temperature and humidity around him, he can manually shift the controls to a spare system. Matters are so arranged that he can, if he chooses to do so in emergency, take over the operation of the vehicle himself.

He can bring the space cabin down by swinging it gently around with the roll, pitch and yaw jets, and then firing the big braking rockets to drop the craft out of its otherwise unalterable orbit.

Precision Needed

This manoeuvre must be done with great precision. If the angle is wrong when the retrograde rockets fire, the ship will sail further out into space instead of toward the earth. The colonel's oxygen would keep him alive for a day and a night, but the electric batteries that power his communication with earth would probably give out before midnight. The colonel would almost certainly become the first space martyr.

But Colonel Glenn is a good Marine. He is a highly disciplined man. He isn't very likely to take things into his own hands even if he gets into trouble.

The men on the earth below are more concerned about his safety than he himself is, and chances are he will let them bring him down regardless.

Whether at the end of one orbit, or two orits, or three orbits, the order will be given by radio to the spaceship over the Pacific and the cabin will fall through the atmosphere for 3,000 miles—across the entire breadth of the United States—before its descent is slowed enough to allow the parachutes to open.

His countrymen confidently expect the colonel to be home before dark.

AERIAL MAPS OF ITALY FOUND ON CRASHED MiG

ACQUAVIVA, Italy (AP) — Aerial maps of southern Italy were found aboard the Bulgarian MiG-17 jet that crashlanded near a new NATO missile base Saturday, a high Italian Air Force source reported today.

The source described the maps as "rather inaccurate" and said:

"It is pretty obvious that the pilot was ordered to fly here to check the exact positions of several NATO missile bases scattered in this region."

The pilot, Lieut. Milusc Solakov, 22, crashed near this south Italian town six miles from the new missile base at Gioia del Colle. The Italian defence ministry said Monday there were indications that Solakov was on an aerial spying mission, but the investigation since has been shrouded in secrecy.

The pilot is recovering at a local hospital.

The Railway Revolution

THE RAILWAY PROBLEM OF Canada, as set forth in the latest installment of the MacPherson royal commission's report, appears to be too complicated for the ordinary citizen's comprehension. So, in detail, it is. Only a handful of Canadians understand the immense complexities of the railways in both physical and financial terms.

But the two main objectives of the MacPherson commission are plain enough and, in practical politics, extremely difficult to achieve.

First, the commission says that the railway industry, as it stands, cannot possibly survive without huge, increasing and probably impossible subsidies from the state. It cannot survive in its present condition because many of its lines and services are unprofitable and unnecessary in the age of airplanes, freight trucks and ships that penetrate almost half way across the country.

This new competition, especially from trucks, cannot be met unless the railways are allowed to compete, and they cannot compete if they must continue to carry the load of redundant services, now out of date.

The commission proposes, therefore, that the railways be allowed to abandon thousands of miles of uneconomic lines, and close down many superfluous services over a reasonable period of years. To help them over this costly interim stage, the state should pay them subsidies of about $100 millions a year at the beginning, this amount dropping annually to about $22 millions after 15 years.

It is not the financial, but the political problem raised by this revolutionary proposal that mainly worries the government. The local protests and the votes likely to be lost by any government which authorizes the abandonment of railway services, for the most part on the prairies, can easily be imagined.

Now the commission advances a second, complementary plan as revolutionary as the first. It proposes that the state should abandon its control of railway rates and leave them to be settled, like other prices, by free competition. Thus, for example, a railway losing traffic to a truck line could reduce its freight rates or, in opposite circumstances, could raise them.

It would be impossible, however, the commission says, to apply this kind of unrestricted rate competition in some areas and in some kinds of traffic.

Where the railways enjoy "captive" traffic—that is to say, where other forms of transportation cannot compete with them as in the long-distance haulage of grain or ore, for example—rates would still be fixed by public authority. Otherwise, of course, the railways could raise their rates to almost any level they pleased regardless of the consequences to the national economy.

This, in a brief, over-simplified version is the double-barreled policy urged upon the government by an able, hard-working commission headed by Mr. M. A. MacPherson and including our distinguished fellow Victorian, Mr. Herbert Anscomb. (The latter's minority report on a matter of detail does not dissent from the commission's general conclusions.)

It would take any government some time to think over a scheme so far-reaching, so drastic and so shaking in its effects throughout the economy. And on the eve of an election it would be naive to expect any firm decision from Ottawa when so many local votes are involved.

We would expect the whole railway problem to be postponed until after the election, perhaps a long time after, and meanwhile the railways' basic situation is likely to deteriorate still further as their costs rise with wage increases, probably paid by state subsidy, and their competitive ability is undermined by more economic carriers.

Nevertheless, the public has a right to expect from the government without delay, and from the Liberal opposition also, some general view of the MacPherson commission's report, some indication of what each party would do about the railways if it won the election.

Flight From the Real Issue

MR. DIEFENBAKER AND HIS election campaign executives, who seem to be trying to ignore Canada's budget, trade policy, defence program and unemployment as possible topics for the hustings, have grasped at a very flimsy red herring to drag across the election trail.

They have dropped an apparently innocuous "to" from their report of a press interview given in Amherst, Nova Scotia, by Mr. Lester Pearson, and are seeking to build the resulting misunderstanding into a major issue. It appears to be a very petty effort.

The Conservative version of the quotation has Mr. Pearson, questioned regarding the design of a Canadian flag, reply: "Well, we would have Quebec members in our cabinet decide what the design would be and would make their views very clear at that time I'm sure."

The transcript released from Mr. Pearson's office reads: "Well, we would have Quebec's members in our cabinet to decide what the design should be and they'd make their views very clear at that time about it."

It was obvious from the context that Mr. Pearson was explaining that Quebec members would have full opportunity to propose the French element to be incorporated in a Canadian flag—not that they would have the sole voice in deciding on the whole flag.

The idea that a Prime Minister of Canada would turn over the dedecision for the design of a Canadian flag entirely to the Quebec members of his cabinet, or any regional or racial group, is so far-fetched that it obviously could come only from a slip of the tongue in interview, from an error in transcribing or printing, or from a deliberate amendment by political opponents.

The anxious efforts of Mr. Diefenbaker to give the present incident publicity make the choice among these explanations an easy one.

Let City and Saanich Proceed

NO ONE FAMILIAR WITH amalgamation discussions in Greater Victoria should be surprised by the lack of warmth with which Oak Bay and Esquimalt have received the proposal for a government survey on the question.

Victoria and Saanich favor such an inquiry. Oak Bay and Esquimalt retain their traditional position of aloofness in what some people consider to be not very enlightened self-interest.

This division of opinion is understandable. The city and Saanich recognize the problems which urban living and urban development are forcing them to face. Oak Bay, with a reputation for good schools (for several years under the administration of an amalgamated school district) and local pride in low-spending councils, is not as clearly aware of the problems. Nor will it be, as long as Oak Bay can depend on a healthy Victoria to provide so many of the essential amenities which the community needs.

Esquimalt views the issue against a different background. Shipyards and the armed forces (not least the naval fire department) bolster Esquimalt municipal services and the local economy in a way to veil weaknesses.

With the two dissident municipalities, amalgamation discussion is a conversation piece, but intermunicipal co-operation an essential.

On the other hand, Victoria and Saanich, both more positively aware of the needs for planned development and the desirability of combining services, face the issues which the future holds.

This was the position the two had assumed when amalgamation went to citizens' votes in 1958. On that occasion, the question was phrased in Saanich in such terms that Saanich would have committed itself without a further ballot. In Victoria, the terms of a contract between the two would have been referred again to the public.

The absence of provisions for later, detailed study of terms by Saanich, and the adverse effect of then Reeve George Chatterton's election eve pronouncement (my head says "yes" but my heart says "no") killed the plan in Saanich. Victoria approved its amalgamation-in-principle ballot.

Under circumstances as they now exist, perhaps amalgamation efforts should be concentrated again on a union of Saanich and Victoria. No point would be served in excluding Oak Bay and Esquimalt from co-operative effort within the whole community. By all means let the latter municipalities have time to recognize realities under conditions no harsher than they will become. Let them enjoy their parochial positions until such time as the Victoria-Saanich union has proved itself.

"If it is a good thing," as Councillor Allan Cox says, "then I think Oak Bay and Esquimalt will be beating on your door to get in."

In that event, unified Saanich and Victoria could set a reasonable price for admission, since the Oak Bay and Esquimalt interests seem disinclined to shoulder any responsibility, financial or otherwise, for union now.

What Is Back of the Ferment in Moscow?

AGED but erect, reviled but undefeated, with glittering pincenez and bloodstained hands, the figure of Vyacheslav M. Molotov has become a bizarre symbol of the bafflement of the Soviet experts. First Molotov was to go back to Vienna. Then he was not to go back. Then the felted silence of Moscow in a secretive moment, swiftly closed around the old man's fate.

Alsop

On this side of the Iron Curtain, meanwhile, some have begun to say the Molotov mystery means that Nikita S. Khrushchev is about to be toppled from supreme power by "Stalinist" opponents. Others are more rationally pointing out that lecturing provincial audiences on cattle foods (which is what Khrushchev has been doing) is a singular way to fight for your political life.

In reality, there are a few serious clues to what may actually be happening in the strange record of the 22nd Congress of the Soviet Communist party. Every important speaker at the Congress denounced Molotov and the other members of the "anti-party group" with unbridled ferocity; but some speakers were also vindictive, while others were not.

New Generation

By a striking coincidence, all those who were vindictive belong to the new generation of Soviet leaders, who are guiltless of the crimes of the Stalin era. These men spoke of the accused as "sadists" and "criminals" who deserve "severe punishment."

But while Frol Kozlov, Podgorny, Shelepin, and other younger leaders used this language there was no clamor for "punishment" from Khrushchev, Mikoyan, and their fellow survivors from the Stalin era. Khrushchev even asked for mercy for old, ga-ga Marshal Voroshilov, saying, "We must not be too hard."

One other peculiarity of the Congress record is also worth noting. It concerns the arranged assassination of Sergei M. Kirov.

This crime, committed in 1934, removed from the scene the only Soviet leader who was still able to argue with Stalin. Kirov's murder also opened the floodgates for the torrents of blood of the years of the party purges. In Soviet eyes, therefore, the murder of Kirov remains a uniquely terrible event; and there are some reasons to believe that Molotov helped Stalin to arrange the murder.

In the case of all the other fearful crimes that were spread upon the record of the 22nd Party Congress those responsible were meticulously named. In many cases the documentary proof was cited. But in this respect, again, Kirov's murder is unique.

Real Criminal

Khrushchev described the murder in a way that makes Ian Fleming seem positively namby-pamby, but he altogether omitted any mention of the real criminal. Instead, he closed his remarks about Kirov with an impassioned promise that investigation of the murder would continue until all the facts were uncovered.

Are the Soviet leaders now arguing, therefore, about whether to execute Molotov for the murder of Kirov? The Soviet experts feel rather confident that the answer is in the negative. Yet they also admit that the man who arranged for Kirov's murder is the one Stalin-era criminal whom Khrushchev could condemn, without setting a decidedly dangerous precedent.

By the same token, the best of the demonologists suspect that if Khrushchev's leadership is being challenged, the nature of the challenge is most probably revealed by the contrast abovenoted—the contrast between the vindictive de-Stalinizers of the younger generation and their more tolerant elders, like Khrushchev himself.

But are the demonologists sure? Again the answer is, "No."

"A ferment is going on, but we can't be sure of its character," is the summary offered by one of them. Nor is the Molotov mystery the only indication of this ferment. There is, for instance, the problem of the Soviet marshals.

At the Party Congress and in later articles in their special organ, Red Star, the leaders of the Soviet armed forces have begun striking a highly individual note.

Arrogant Note

It is above all a note of arrogant self-confidence, going so far as open reminders that the Red Army's defeat of the Germans "alone" saved from destruction "the party, the unity of the party, and even the sacred motherland."

While thus underlining their own importance, the Soviet marshals have warmly endorsed the attack on Stalin and the "anti-party group." They "have a score to settle" with Molotov and the others like him, as Marshal Malinovsky remarks.

But the marshals have simultaneously claimed the right to speak about matters far beyond their own area of authority. Above all, their spokesmen have persistently and angrily denounced as "impermissible" the growing freedom of de-Stalinized Soviet intellectual life.

The intellectuals, like Ilya Ehrenburg, have in effect answered by cocking a snook at the marshals; and thus they, too, have added to the ferment.

In short, everything from the continuing enlargement of the area of Soviet intellectual freedom to the political role of the armed forces, everything from the fate of Molotov to the future trend of Soviet political development, will probably be determined by this ferment's outcome. But the outcome, alas, is highly unpredictable.

A Move Towards Removing Discrimination

ALTHOUGH the government has backed away from the long awaited comprehensive revision of the immigration act, the new regulations announced by Mrs. Fairclough do go some way towards removing the injustices and discrimination which have so troubled the Canadian conscience. This is a difficult and rather technical field and much obviously will depend on how the regulations are interpreted and administered. It would appear, however, that there are two major improvements.

Western

The first has to do with appeal procedure. In the past there was no right of appeal from deportation ordered at a point of entry; the person concerned was helpless unless he had established some sort of residence in Canada. There was a general board of immigration appeals but it had only limited jurisdiction: many classes of appeals were dealt with by the minister or by local or headquarters' boards consisting entirely of departmental officials.

All appeals henceforth will come before an independent tribunal free to conduct its proceedings independently of departmental officials. The regulations also spell out the rights and privileges of persons facing deportation.

Veto Power

Mr. Pickersgill, the former Liberal minister, has pointed out that Mrs. Fairclough still has power under the unrevised act to set aside rulings of the appeal board. At a press conference, Mrs. Fairclough conceded this but argued that a minister who tried to exercise the power would find himself in an "untenable position." She also agreed that the act provides no appeal from the board to the courts but held that any lawyer can achieve this object through habeas corpus or other procedures.

The new regulations, as a general rule—and with one important exception to be noted later—set aside discrimination based upon race, color, national origin or country and substitute the test of education, training or skills.

This, of course, is far from revolutionary because the hard fact is that acceptable skills are still comparatively rare among colored peoples. Mrs. Fairclough herself carefully discouraged suggestions that the new regulations would result in any marked change in the established pattern of emigration to Canada.

Two points about this test should be noted. In the first place "education, training or skill" is a fluid concept. The standard will vary inversely with economic conditions in Canada. If there is full employment and a high demand for labor, the comparatively unskilled may pass the door. If employment in Canada sags, the requisite standard of skill may be very high.

Four Requirements

The second point is that skill alone will land no one in Canada. It must be combined with one of four requirements: sufficient means of support to establish oneself, placement in employment, arrangements for self-employment (in a business or agriculture) or the possession of a relative willing and able to provide maintenance.

Canada, in other words, will still have a highly restrictive immigration policy.

It is in the matter of relatives that some Canadians, or Canadian residents, will continue to be more equal than others. For traditionally less favored countries the dependent category has been widened to include grandmothers, fiancees and parents regardless of age. But there is still to be a preference for countries which might be termed established suppliers: mainly nations of Europe and the western hemisphere.

Brothers, sisters, adult sons and daughters, and orphan nieces will continue to be eligible if they come from Austria but ineligible if their homeland is Hong Kong.

Same Rights

Mrs. Fairclough defended this provision by arguing that the government did not wish to withdraw a privilege enjoyed for many years. There is certainly no case for further restrictions. Why then did the minister not end discrimination by according the same rights to all nationals?

The minister gave two explanations at her press conference. She noted, in the first place, that in some countries it is difficult to establish who is a son or daughter because of the lack of proper registration facilities. In addition, the test of skill does not apply to sponsored relatives: the effect of ending discrimination would be, therefore, to increase the flow of close relatives unqualified as to skills or placement.

Japan, outside the favored area, would not appear to be a problem on either count though it might be for other reasons not mentioned by Mrs. Fairclough.

Chief Beneficiaries

Nevertheless there has been some easement in all directions. According to the minister the chief beneficiaries will be the Asians, Africans and Middle Eastern nationals. Until now they have been barred unless sponsored (or admitted by orders-in-council). For the first time unsponsored applicants from these countries, and from the West Indies, will be admissible if they have the necessary qualifications on the basis of education or skills.

Security screening is not affected by the change in regulations. The screen, for obvious reasons, is much finer in the case of some countries than of others.

Nothing Surer Than Taxes

In a recent issue of the Toronto Daily Star, there appeared the following quotation taken from your paper: "Liberal Leader Lester Pearson's plan for a new old age pension system, whatever one may think of it's details, has two great advantages.

"In the first place, the savings of Canadians, during their working lives, would be placed on an actuarially sound and self supporting basis" etc.

I would like some one to explain to me what a sound and self supporting basis is, because, with what knowledge I have, it is my opinion that there is no such thing.

In the first place, all actuarial calculations that I know anything about include the element of compound interest, and this is [illegible] self supporting but its indefinite continuation without some outside adjustment is impossible.

In the second place, savings accumulated in a fund, any fund, cannot supply the funds guaranteed by actuarial calculation for future distribution (even without compound interest) without government support in the way of interest on government bonds purchased by the fund, and the taxpayers have to pay this interest.

The quotation continues as follows: "The scheme would not be dependent on changing state of the national revenues. It would be built from regular contributions by every income-earner."

I submit that this is inferentially a false statement, because as pointed out above, government support cannot be avoided, and further because of a still more important fact, that it is impossible for the great bulk of income-earners to save enough during their working years to pay their pensions after that time, and the attempt to do so worsens the situation, because it curtails consumption, and thereby causes unemployment, and the whole circle is started over again.

In an industrial society it is spending not saving that is necessary, to benefit every one. The simple fact is that the more industrialization we have the more taxes we must impose. If I am wrong, will you please explain my error, and if I am right why not face the fact and educate our people to accept them instead of trying to fool them into believing that if they elect the right people taxes can be avoided. The statement that the only certain things in life are death and taxes is probably true. Why do we not learn to accept the latter as we accept the former?

That is not to say that taxes should not be scrutinized or that all policies would be equal in their tax effect. As a matter of fact I think taxes could be greatly reduced, if someone could devise a workable scheme whereby government would create all money at cost instead of delegating this function to private institutions, i.e. chartered banks, and then borrowing this money for government operating expenses.

In the meantime why try to fool ourselves into believing that we can have such benefits as old age pensions, unemployment insurance, family allowances, hospital services, etc. without taxes, on a self supporting basis?

Hunting Deaths

Ref. your item "Doesn't give much clue" on page 15 of Saturday's edition.

Many of your readers who at some time had experience with firearms and walked our forest areas, will have noticed that newspaper coverage of hunting accidents never indicates whether the coroner's jury express any curiosity as to the mechanical efficiency of the weapon nor whether the members are interested to learn about the eyesight and accuracy of the vision of the hunter. Surely a poor-sighted hunter with a delicate hair trigger weapon should be kept out of most hunting areas where the underbrush is thick.

Newspaper coverage of pedestrian fatalities due to motor cars seldom tell the reader whether the coroner's jury makes intelligent inquiries in regard to the driver's eyesight and driving ability and especially in regard to the efficiency of steering gear, brakes and lights, etc., of the car involved.

Possibly it would be helpful to our law makers if coroners' juries could be encouraged to make observations and recommendations more often than they seem to be doing.

. . . REPORTING

OTTAWA—The baby bonus has been the greatest pitch for Quebec votes since Mackenzie King promised "no conscription." The government failed, in the Thone Speech, to propose any increase in family allowances.

This could be just an indication that the government sees no economic reason to increase these payments. But it also could signify that the Conservatives don't believe an increase here would bring them any substantial political advantage.

When the Liberals boosted the baby bonus in 1957 they held Quebec while losing the rest of the country. Of course, Louis St. Laurent helped. Both ways. Nine months later the Tories won Quebec, Maurice Duplesses helping.

Duplessis is dead, his political machine wrecked, and the opinion polls imply and the pundits say the Grits will sweep Quebec. Well, the Tories won before without Quebec. In 1957 they followed Col. Gordon Churchill's advice to hew to the old military tactic of reinforcing strength, not weakness. Are they doing this again?

I don't think that until very recently at any rate there was any conscious decision to throw in the towel over Quebec. That elaborately staged pilgrimmage of the cabinet to Quebec City was to have cut much political ice with Jean Baptiste. For reasons well known it was quite a fiasco.

There is convincing evidence that Prime Minister Diefenbaker hoped to recoup with an appeal to French-Canadian nationalist sentiment. It's pretty certain that some special sop to Quebec, perhaps more than one, was deleted from the Throne Speech only hours before Parliament opened. Most reports refer to a concession on government cheques—that henceforth cheques would be printed in both English and French.

But the form in which cheques are printed is an administrative matter, and scarcely weighty enough to warrant mention in the Throne Speech. This supports the theory that what was deleted was a proposal dealing with a method for selecting the design for a distinctive Canadian flag. So also does the comment of Quebec Tory L. J. Pigeon that bilingual cheques will be a fact in two months.

Moreover, the flag question is sufficiently emotional to explain the protest to Diefenbaker by Tory MPs from Ontario and the Maritimes that reportedly resulted in the deletion. In those provinces where many still prefer the Union Jack to the Canadian Red Ensign, a proposed national flag without the Jack in it would be opposed. Anything with the Jack in it would be rejected by Quebec. This is the deadlock that stopped King when he too tried to use the flag to woo Quebec.

* * *

Liberal Leader Pearson has promised [illegible] may now be content to leave him with this promise in the hope it will cost him votes in the English-speaing provinces.

As delivered, the Throne Speech contained nothing specially for Quebec except a little railway construction and an "iffy" proposal to abolish tolls on a couple of Montreal bridges.

The doctoring of the Throne Speech at the insistence of English-speaing MPs could thus have been more than capitulation on one point to opinion outside of Quebec; it could have been tacit abadonment of all but a handful of Quebec parliamentary seats to the Grits.

LONDON LETTER By WALLACE REYBURN

British View on Shelters

LONDON—A month or so ago, when I was doing a roundup of opinion here on the Bomb and fallout, I couldn't find anyone with any interest in building shelters.

Reyburn

The attitude then was: If it comes, we've had it; shelters are not going to be of any use. But the view seems to be changing.

Down in Portsmouth an estate agent, William Foster, and a local builder, Albert Figgins, have got together with a plan to build 60 nuclear fallout shelters in disused army ramparts on the outskirts of town.

The scheme includes boring a deep well for water and providing generation plant for electricity and other communal services.

Cost for each shelter hasn't been worked out yet. It is all very much at the drawing-board stage and planning permission has to be obtained from the Portsmouth council.

But a firm called Technovision Ltd., with headquarters at Maidenhead just outside London, is further ahead with their shelters. They say they are ready to put on the market three versions.

There's a do-it-yourself type for which the complete set of drawings will cost $45 and the materials—mainly concrete blocks—would cost $435.

* * *

The firm will also build a special family-size fibreglass shelter for $1,015. And there's a de luxe steel-walled version at $1,640.

Alistair Lacy, 33-year-old head of Technovision Ltd., says they were prompted to go into this work after seeing television films here of all the shelter activity in the States. Their designs are all based on specifications in American civil defence handbooks.

Transfusion Fight Goes To Top Court

OTTAWA (CP)—A member of the Jehovah's Witnesses is taking his sect's battle against blood transfusions to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Ronald Fenn Wolfe of London, Ont., will ask the court Monday for leave to appeal lower court decisions upholding the verdict of a coroner's jury which investigated the death of his infant son in London, Ont., April 15, 1960.

The baby died of haemolytic disease for which the standard treatment is tranfusion of new blood. A transfusion was recommended by doctors, but Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe refused consent on grounds that blood transfusions were against their religious beliefs.

The child was made a temporary ward of the Children's Aid Society which ordered a blood transfusion. However, the child died after receiving a transfusion.

The coroner's jury said contributing factors to the death were delay in giving a transfusion because of the parent's refusal to consent, and delay in holding a hearing to make the infant the temporary ward of the Children's Aid Society.

Attempts by Mr. Wolfe to have the verdict of the coroner's jury quashed failed in the Ontario Supreme and Appeal Courts.

TORIES HAVE JITTERS, SAYS PEARSON

Grit Campaign 'in High Gear'

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals are putting their election campaign into high gear, convinced the Conservatives are on the run.

Five separate groups of campaign workers will meet here during the next five days to plan Liberal strategy and put the final seal on the Liberal policy platform.

Opposition Leader Pearson said Wednesday night the Conservatives have the jitters and are stooping to distortions and baseless charges to get re-elected.

"When little men see big power escaping from them they get shrill and desperate," Mr. Pearson said in a speech.

He denounced Prime Minister Diefenbaker for employing cheap, degrading tactics of petty partisan politics, unworthy of any prime minister.

"If that's the kind of tactics you have to adopt to win an election, I would rather lose the election," Mr. Pearson said.

The Liberal leader, speaking to 300 attending the annual meeting of the West Ottawa Liberal Association, struck back at Mr. Diefenbaker's recent attacks on the Liberal camp.

Two hundred delegates to the Canadian University Liberal Federation begin their 2½-day meeting Friday. The national council of the Liberal party will bring 400 together Monday and Tuesday. During the weekend the national campaign committee and the executive of the Women's Liberal Federation meet, and Young Liberals also plan meetings.

Mr. Pearson referred to Mr. Diefenbaker's speech in the Commons Monday and Tuesday this week, in which the prime minister accused the Liberals of down-grading Canada and of having as their candidates a number of "bureaucrats" who pushed Canadians around during the Second World War.

The government, Mr. Pearson said, should defend its policy, and not descend to the level of personal attack on men who served the country well in war and peace, and were not in the Commons to defend themselves.

"It's pretty poor stuff," Mr. Pearson said, "to be accused of smearing our country because we take objection to some of the things the government has done, and quote reputable authorities to support our case, and ask what is wrong."

ISLAND DIGEST

ORDER PASSED

Sidney Village Doubled in Size

SIDNEY—Village area was nearly doubled by provincial order in council which followed area approval of relocating boundaries Dec. 7.

New areas to north and south of the former village lines are now included, with the result that the unorganized area of North Saanich has shrunk by the same amount.

Northern boundary becomes Amelia, western border Melissa, with one small block to the northeast also included.

Frost Avenue is the new line south, embracing land between Patricia Bay Highway and the waterfront.

GIVES WELCOME

Village commissioner A. A. Cormack said: "We are very happy to welcome the areas and their residents to the village and I would like to assure them that an effort will be made as soon as possible to provide the areas with some of the amenities existing in the village. I refer particularly to sewers."

The absorption created a problem for an applicant wanting North Saanich property rezoned.

It was the first time in history of the district that an application was cancelled by change in administration.

A hearing was held and the application examined by building inspector W. R. Cannon, who referred the matter to municipal affairs department, which up to the order in council had made no decision.

Now there must be a new hearing by Sidney Town Planning Commission.

Death Takes Mayoralty Candidate

[illegible] candidate for mayor, Alfred Plant, died suddenly at home Wednesday.

The former alderman and school trustee opposed Mayor Loran Jordon in municipal elections last month.

A resident of Port Alberni for more than 30 years, Mr. Plant was a baker after coming to the city from Nanaimo.

He had served in the U.S. army in the First World War, having come to North America from his Scottish birthplace.

A past master of Barclay Lodge AF and AM, the deceased had been a past grand officer and elder of the Masonic Lodge, an elder of First United Church, past patron of the Order of Eastern Star and a member of Royal Canadian Legion branch 55.

Surviving are the widow Dora, son George, Montreal; daughter Mrs. Grace Boyle, North Vancouver, and five grandchildren.

NO DECISION ON FISHING LICENCE CUT

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has made no decision on whether to implement proposals for a limitation of west coast fishing licences, Fisheries Minister MacLean said today in the Commons.

He was replying to Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena), who asked about recommendations by Dr. Sol Sinclair of Winnipeg who studied the question for the government.

Legislation this session "would seem unlikely," Mr. MacLean said. "This would depend on the length of the session."

Tot Too Close To Fireplace, Clothes Burn

DUNCAN — Seven-year-old Karen Kirkpatrick is in good condition at King's Daughters Hospital with burns suffered when her clothes caught fire.

Flames from an open fireplace were beaten out by the child's mother, Mrs. Ken Kirkpatrick, St. Julian Street, after an older brother tried to smother them with an old shirt.

Karen was admitted to hospital with first degree burns, and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, although burned, did not require hospital treatment.

Apparently the child had stood too near the fireplace and the house coat she wore caught fire.

MURDER CHARGE LAID IN ISLAND SHOOTING

GANGES—Non-capital murder was charged Wednesday to the young widow of a Saturna Island man shot to death two weeks ago.

Two days after William Money, 23, was found dead in bed, Mrs. Marian Money, 21, was committed to Essondale mental hospital, where she remains indefinitely.

Police said there could be no date set for her appearance on the charge until doctors decided she is fit to appear.

An inquest which opened on Saturna Island a day after the incident was discovered has been postponed to Feb. 24, pending ballistics report, police said.

All-Sooke Day Queen To Appear in Parade

SOOKE — Queen of All Sooke Day will be chosen early this year and take part in the city's Victoria Day parade.

Sooke Community Association decided Wednesday to name a May Queen, to be crowned early in the month by last year's festival regent Diane Zelenko. She will ride with two princesses in the May 24 parade, celebrated this year May 21.

All Sooke Day will be marked July 21 and the association decrees that all contests — logging and water sports—will be for Canadian championships.

Sooke residents will be eligible for a $25 prize for the winning suggestion of an historical float in the Victoria parade.

The association is considering building a permanent pool at the logging sports arena, Sooke River flats, to enable spectators to see competition from existing stands.

Three Appointed To Village Posts

UCLUELET — Chairman Ron Matterson and Commissioners Lorne H. White and Barclay Stuart have been installed here as members of the village commission.

All three were appointed to their posts, since there were no nominations preceding the December provincial election.

CRASHES, REPAIRS

One Way or Another Family Cars Laid Up

COMOX—The Mitchell family and their several cars are almost 100 per cent disabled after a dinner hour crash Wednesday.

A. W. Mitchell swerved his auto into a ditch to avoid two other cars that had been in collision moments earlier.

He crawled out with broken teeth and went to lend a hand at the first crash, only to find his daughter, Gail, in one of the cars with a broken collarbone.

Gail Mitchell, driving her mother's car because her own was in for repairs, had been in collision with a car driven by Gordon W. MacDonald.

Both drivers in the first accident were taken to hospital and police reckoned damage to the three cars at $1,200.

Gail was to be married in three weeks to an RCMP constable.

Businessmen Face Parking Restrictions

CAMPBELL RIVER—Complaints of over-parking by village merchants may mean restrictions in the business area.

Commissioners are considering making a one-hour parking area to allow shoppers to park briefly and prevent all-day parking by businessmen.

Impounding has been suggested as a means of enforcing the proposal.

* * *

Commissioners will pay $6,300 for a second block of land to add to a park near the carpenter's hall. Owners of the land are Douglas and Thomas Inkster of Courtenay.

$5,000 Sought For Lifeguards

NANAIMO — The Water Safety Association, helped by the Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 10, seeks $5,000 to hire lifeguards for Greater Nanaimo beach patrol this summer, an organizational meeting decided Wednesday.

BRIDGE WORK UNDER WAY

DUNCAN—Workmen of the provincial highways department are repairing the Pimbury bridge which crosses Cowichan River at Tzouhalem Road.

It is being built to a 15-ton load standard as a temporary measure while federal and provincial officials consider a proposed $420,000 flood control scheme for the area.

Trading Stamps Cut Food Costs, Lobbyists Claim

Trading stamps are actually aimed at reducing costs through boosting sales, a supermarket contends in the first lobby attempt to the session of the legislature opening today.

Super-Valu Stores Ltd. Wednesday afternoon circulated a 14-page brief to all 52 MLAs.

The brief calls on the legislature not to approve new laws promised by Attorney-General Robert Bonner outlawing stamp operations in B.C. Super-Valu is one of three chain stores currently using stamps.

It says that the opponents of trading stamps are only other merchants afraid of competition, and their prime concern is not the public interest "but their own business."

"If as they claim the stamps are not in the public interest because they raise prices, then what is their problem?

"If you credit B.C. housewives with any degree of intelligence then it is obvious that they will soon spot these differences in price," the brief says.

The brief adds that there are many other things which contribute to the cost of operating grocery stores: one-cent sales, coupons, free gifts, advertising, free parking and expensive decor.

"Their function, however, is to attract more customers and by spreading these fixed charges over a substantially greater volume of business a merchant is able to reduce prices," says the brief.

It adds that stamps are just another part of this practice, and are in use in seven Canadian provinces.

SALES COMPENSATE

"The stamp plan has proven completely successful by increasing the volume of business to a point where cost of the plan is more than compensated for by additional sales."

The brief says that to single out stamps for legislation would be an act of gross discrimination.

It says the government might as well legislate against free parking and advertising.

The brief contends that the total number of people and groups opposing stamps is "only an infinitesimal percentage of the women in B.C. who are now saving discount stamps."

Ex-Reuters Chief Dies in London

LONDON (Reuters) — Sir Roderick Jones, 84, former chairman and managing director of Reuters, died Tuesday of a kidney ailment.

Jones was associated with the international news agency for 46 years and retired as chairman in 1941, shortly before it was reorganized as an independent news co-operative owned by the British national and provincial press.

He joined Reuters as a junior reporter in South Africa in 1895 and within 20 years rose to become its executive head.

FEDERAL-PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE ON POWER

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today he hoped a federal - provincial conference could be held shortly to discuss the possibility of a national power grid.

Diefenbaker told the Commons that he has written to the premiers suggesting they send their ministers responsible for hydro-electric power, and their experts, to discuss the question with federal officials.

He said such a power grid would permit remote sources to be tapped when they might never be if the power was not being shipped to other provinces. He said this would bring cheaper power to industry and also aid the consumer.

Ottawa Remains Firm On Magazine Curb

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government is willing to listen to United States protests but will make no fundamental change in its plan to strengthen the competitive position of Canadian magazines, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday.

He was asked in the Commons to comment on a Washington report that the U.S. regards the plan as improper and that it may demand some form of trade compensation if the Canadian government goes ahead with it.

One of the government proposals would deny entry to Canada of foreign periodicals containing advertising "directed primarily" to the Canadian market.

The other would reduce to 50 per cent from 100 per cent the deductibility for tax purposes of advertising placed in foreign-owned magazines now printed in Canada, with all deductibility withdrawn for ads placed in any such magazines that may be established here in the future.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government was "prepared to listen to the views" the U.S. may want to present formally, but does not intend "to depart from the general plan and purpose."

Canadian publishers are being challenged by the inroads on their home market by foreign publications to the extent that the only viewpoint which might be available to Canadians would be those of another nation unless action is taken, he said.

Police Chief Killed

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—A burst of machine-gun fire from a speeding car killed the chief of the Guatemalan secret police, Ranulfo Gonzales, Wednesday night as he was leaving his home. Gonzales' driver and one of his assistants were wounded. The attackers escaped, and police launched an extensive search for them.

$42 MILLION ADDED

Federal Deficit Still Soaring

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Finance Minister Donald Fleming tabled supplementary estimates in the House, Wednesday, that will add another $42,000,000 to the federal deficit in the current fiscal year.

That amount is to provide for acreage payments to Western grain growers. It was not taken into consideration by the finance minister when he introduced his budget last June forecasting a deficit of $650,000,000.

Because of the lagging revenues and the soaring expenditures the minister has been faced with the possibility that his deficit will climb to at least $800,000,000 for the year.

The amount for the acreage payments was part of the $82,390,000 supplementary estimates. Another major item in the estimates was $40,000,000 to meet the federal contribution to the municipal winter works incentive program, an increase of $10,000,000 over last year.

However, the expenditure for winter works was taken into consideration by Mr. Fleming when he esitmated his deficit in the last budget.

The latest supplementary estimates raises the total expenditures estimated for the current year to a new high of $6,363,998,000, or an increase of $275,000,000 over all estimates last year. It is expected there will be additional supplementary estimates before next March that will raise the total expenditures even higher.

Exploding Ammo Caused Wounds

SALISBURY (Reuters)—An inquiry into the plane crash death of Dag Hammarskjold, late secretary-general of the United Nations, was told Monday that bullet wounds found in the bodies of six of the 16 victims were caused by ammunition exploding when the plane caught fire after crashing.

This testimony was given by Dr. Hugh Douglas Ross, a government pathologist. He also said the injuries suffered by Hammarskjold in the crash were so severe that it was "inconceivable that survival would be more than momentary."

Natural Gas Generator Rated Major Development

BY GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

One of the most interesting developments in the energy field—and one which could be of considerable importance to British Columbia in a few years — is the natural gas fueled generator which converts heat or chemical energy into electricity.

Bell

Already in use in a few areas of the United States, gas fueled generators are arousing considerable controversy between electrical power interests, who oppose them bitterly, and the natural gas interests who see them as the ideal power source for large buildings and building complexes.

Biggest selling point of the gas generator is that it provides, in one package, electricity, heat and cooling from a virtually trouble-free energy source.

The new generator is being hailed in many quarters in the United States as the most revolutionary scientific breakthrough since the emergence of nuclear power and the prediction has been made in several financial papers that it will assure natural gas of a dominant place in the energy field in North America.

This, of course, is good news for British Columbia, where significant gas strikes in the northeastern and north-central areas of the province this winter give strong indications of proving up gas reserves of tremendous magnitude.

The word in B.C. mining circles is that the Sheba Copper property—owned 53 per cent by Peel Resources Ltd. and 47 per cent by Cassiar Consolidated Mines Ltd.—is the hottest strike since Craigmont, whose property it adjoins.

Although assay results from the No. 2 diamond drill hole were inconclusive due to poor core recovery resulting from the small-diameter drill used and the crumbly nature of the structure, mineralization varying from .15 to 2.3 per cent copper was found in all five-foot intervals through the 60 feet of hole.

The mineralized zone is reported to be close to 500 feet wide and there is hope that it is an extension of the Craigmont ore body.

Third hole is to go down immediately using a heavier drill which was moved in this week.

Adding to the interest in the property is a report from Peel Resources stating that H. C. Ketcheson Investments Ltd. has underwritten another 150,000 shares of Peel at 40 cents and has been granted options on four further blocks of 150,000 shares each at 60 cents, 80 cents, $1 and $1.50.

According to a Victoria source, Noranda Mines Ltd. is now believed to have bought about 250,000 shares of Western Mines Ltd.

About 150,000 shares are believed to have been acquired just a few days ago from directors who obtained a release of escrow stock, about 100,000 were bought on the open market and another 100,000 shares were purchased previously from directors.

If this report is correct it means that about half of Western's 2.1 million issued shares are closely held by Consolidated Mining and Smelting, with a 30 per cent interest, Noranda and company directors.

Standard Oil of B.C., which this week announced location of its first exploratory well northeast of Dawson City, has staked a second well in the Yukon.

The second well, however, is in the south, just across the B.C. border and about 16 miles northwest of the rumored huge Pan American Beaver River gas strike.

The well, SOBC Beavercrow No. 1, will be drilled to a depth of 11,000 feet on a 63,854-acre tract obtained from SOBC's parent company, Standard Oil of California.

$65 Million Industrial Development

VANCOUVER (CP) — The first stages of a $65,000,000 industrial development at Boundary Bay, on the United States border, about 20 miles south of here, will be started next year, it has been announced.

Mr. Boultbee said precise couver realty firm which is financing the project, said construction of dikes on tidal flats at the bay will start next year.

Mr. Boltbee said precise plans will be submitted to the British Columbia government this summer.

The project will take 20 years, he said. The firm will spend $26,000,000 to reclaim a vast acreage of mud flats. About 3,500 acres would be used for heavy industry, 2,790 for light industry, 1,430 for residences and 1,000 for parkland.

Mr. Boultbee said the dikes will cost about $10,000,000. The next step would be construction of deep-water dock facilities, roads and sewers.

JFK Bids to Free Silver From Government Control

NEW YORK (AP)—Silver speculators have unloaded some of their hoard after a price rise that carried it from 91½ cents an ounce Nov. 28 to a high of $1.04¾ Dec. 15. As a result, the price has dropped here and in London.

It's against this background that President Kennedy is asking Congress to free silver from all U.S. government control. He wants the metal gradually withdrawn as a backing for paper money and used only in coins.

The speculative rise in the price of silver was set off by the president's order Nov. 28 halting the treasury's sale of silver, which had effectively set a price ceiling of 91½ cents an ounce.

Under the silver purchase act of 1934, the treasury still offers to buy newly mined silver at 90½ cents an ounce. But who wants to sell to it when the free market price is so much higher?

STOCKS DEPLETED

The treasury stopped selling as the first step in the president's plan to demonetize silver, except as coins. But it already was in a bind. The supply it had for sale in excess of the amount it was legally required to keep as backing for paper money was fast disappearing.

The price of silver rose sharply, partly because of a strong demand for industrial uses. But silver users say the rise then and since was due even more to so much being held off the market by speculators expecting the treasury to use up its supply at the rate its sales had been increasing.

They held that growing industrial demand had made the treasury price artificially low.

Handy and Harman, refiner and fabricator of precious metals, puts total world consumption of silver in 1961 at 430,700,000 ounces. This is broken down into 350,700,000 ounces for industrial use and coinage, up 8 per cent from 1960, about 40,000,000 ounces in inventory accumulations, part of this in anticipation of the price rise, and some 40,000,000 in speculative hoardings.

WOULD STICK TO COINS

If Kennedy has his way, the treasury might be out of the market, using up its present supplies for new coinage.

The president proposes that the present $1 and $2 silver certificate banknotes gradually be withdrawn from circulation. The federal reserve system would be authorized to issue paper money in all denominations, free of specific requirements for silver backing.

The president also wants the treasury freed of the present requirement to buy all domestically-mined silver offered. He hopes to see a futures market in silver set up, entirely free of government control.

Breweries In Merger

LONDON (Reuters) — E. P. Taylor, millionaire Canadian brewer, Wednesday announced a further expansion of his British beer interests with a £78,500,000 merger between his United Breweries and Charringtons.

Taylor, who started United Breweries with a merging of three small firms in Northern England, has expanded it into a £48,000,000 business. Charrington's, one of Britain's oldest brewers, has a value of £30,000,000.

Profitable Year Seen for Lumber Industry

By AB KENT

Expectation of a profitable year in B.C.'s lumber industry is held by John MacKenzie, re-elected president of Local 1-118 International Woodworkers of America.

On the eve of pre-negotiation talks which he will attend in Vancouver, Mr. MacKenzie said he was "looking forward with great interest to the financial statements of the companies and I'm sure in my own mind they will be a complete contradiction of what the companies have been trying to tell us."

This is not a new tactic, he noted, with negotiations for a new working contract about to begin.

Mr. MacKenzie was installed as president for his 12th consecutive term by IWA regional director Joe Morris, who spoke at length on coming negotiations when he visited the local this week.

Only two of the 1962 executive posts were contested in annual elections, in which 50 per cent of the 1,500-member local cast ballots.

First vice-president is Murray Drew, second vice-president Robert Lowe (contested), third vice-president Jack Burt, financial secretary Edwin Haw, recording secretary Jack Groves.

Warden Darvis Cook, conductor Tom Ainsley (contested), six-year trustee Cy Smith.

Officers were authorized to attend the B.C. Federation of Labor wage conference in Vancouver Feb. 3 and 4.

The president said a voluntary collection is being taken in the local to support the New Democratic Party.

"The union is doing everything humanly possible within the framework of provincial legislation that makes second class citizens of the labor movement to collect by voluntary means.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

Ogden Point is a strange place to pick up a wedding present. Especially when the wedding happened some years ago. But Jimmy Audain didn't seem to mind. Mind? Shucks, he was as gleeful as a kitten with a ball of string.

He stood there on the top deck of the Ss. Pacific Unity. The wind whipped his camel hair coat and sent shudders up and down the spine of a visitor unaccustomed to so much fresh air at 8 in the morning.

A tall, rangy chestnut colt peeked through the door of the box stall. He seemed quite nonchalant about the brisk sea breeze despite the fact he had left his overcoat and ear muffs in Glasgow last Dec. 22.

The colt nudged Audain.

"Good morning, my friend," said Jimmy. "You look well today." The colt didn't reply.

Supreme Verdict, as he is known in thoroughbred circles, is not a talking horse. Running is his business. For him and Audain business has been quite good.

He did, indeed, look fine. There were no signs of seasickness nor sea legs one might expect after an 8,000-mile sea odyssey from Glasgow to Victoria by way of Panama.

Since longshoremen were busy unloading fruit juice and wouldn't be getting to Supreme Verdict for another hour, [illegible] retired to the dining room for coffee transfusion.

'Buy Me a Horse to Win the Derby'

"You kidding about Supreme Verdict being your wedding present?" Audain was asked.

"Not a bit," he said. "My wife knew how I felt about horses. So when she said she would like to buy me one, I got in touch with Mickey Rogers—he's one of England's best trainers. 'Buy me a horse that can win the Derby,' I told him."

That was in September, 1958. Rogers went to the Newmarket Sales. A strapping chestnut yearling with a white stripe caught his eye. Rogers couldn't wait to write a cheque for £1,000.

"We named him Supreme Verdict since his sire was Supreme Court. Rogers told me that had we purchased him later the price would have been double. Maybe more."

Apart from appearance, the colt has a right to be able to run a little. His pappy, Supreme Court, is out of the noted English sire Persian Gulf. His dam, Valona, had her career aborted before it started by an accident. But her dam, Phinola, of French strain, threw some fleet offspring. Among them: Phinee, 14 wins, and, Tisserand, 18 victories.

Supreme Verdict hasn't really been to the races enough to prove whether he's a good one or a great one. As a two-year-old he ran twice. Unplaced his first out, he ran second to Vale Blue, a prestigious baby, in the Laragh Stakes.

High Society Didn't Faze This Boy

His first race as a three-year-old saw him hook Typhoon, then regarded as England's best three-year-old. Supreme Verdict hung it on Typhoon by a short neck. It is worth mentioning that Typhoon was the leading money winner ($13,000) at Tanforan last fall.

His first big race was the £2,000 Gold Flake Stakes at a mile and a half. Typhoon wasn't there but Lynchris was. The latter was held as the best mare in England. She won like it, too, as the prohibitive 8-5 favorite.

Second, a length and a half back, was Supreme Verdict. Since few three-year-olds beat older horses, let alone the best in the country, the loss was hardly a disgrace. Lynchris injured herself shortly thereafter and was purchased for $100,000 by an American.

Next was the Epsom Derby. Audain was there (the second time he had flown to England).

"My horse went to the lead at Tattersham Corner," he said, a warm smile on his face. "At the mile and a quarter, Supreme Verdict was still in front.

"I remember saying to myself. 'My God! My God! He's leading!' Then they caught him. It would have been nice to win but that would have been expecting a lot."

He laughed. "I wouldn't be surprised," he said, "if he was the only horse in the Derby to get a letter from a fan. Gladys Cooper, the British actress, had tipped him to win in one of the London papers.

That Was Rich Cargo—$25,000 Worth

"After the race she wrote him. The letter came to Mickey Rogers. It read: 'Dear Supreme Verdict: I just wanted to let you know that you gave me a supreme thrill in the Derby. I will never forget it nor will I forget you.' Rogers sent her a bouquet of roses . . . from Supreme Verdict."

After his colt ran well but out of the money in the Irish Cambridgeshire, Audain decided to bring him home. "We had become attached to him and, well, you just can't fly over there every time he runs."

Supreme Verdict almost never made it. Harry Wragg, the celebrated English trainer, offered £5,000 for the colt. The Audains declined.

At Don Carley's riding stables, Supreme Verdict will get 30 days rest. Then they will put him in training. Audain would dearly love to see him run and win at Vancouver. If his form merits it, the big boy will go south of the border where they stack the financial hay deep.

Owners traditionally tend to overrate their horses. That is why outside opinion was solicited. Bobby Meeking, the talented Vancouver trainer who has made two pilgrimages to England for thoroughbreds, was asked if Wragg's £5,000 offer was justified.

"Not hardly enough," said Meeking flatly. "This horse was weighted at 122 pounds by England's crack handicapper. The top horse was rated at 130.

"If Supreme Verdict takes to North American tracks, and I don't see why he shouldn't, he'll be able to run at Santa Anita. He may be the best horse brought here. Worth $25,000 anyway."

No wonder the longshoremen took so much time unloading him. That was pretty hot cargo they were handling.

'YOU ZIG . . . AND I'LL ZAG'

If there's anything better than one goalie, it must be two goalies. Johnny Bower, left, normally fills the job for Toronto Maple Leafs but at Chicago, Wednesday night, he got help from defenceman Al Arbour, centre. Between them they repulsed this Chicago threat. Two others they didn't cope with allowed Black Hawks to skate off with 2-1 victory. Bobby Hull of Chicago watches.

Too Late to Cancel World Tournament

North American Group to Work On Hot Problem

GENEVA — The world hockey championships will take place as planned in Colorado Springs, Colo., J. D. (Bunny) Ahearne, vice-president of the International Hockey Federation, said today.

Ahearne refused to comment on the visa holdup threatening to bar the East German team from competing in the championships but said the event definitely will take place as scheduled in Colorado Springs from March 9 to 19.

Ahearne added that the Allied control office in Berlin, which is responsible for issuing travel documents to East Germans, told him it would have a decision on the team by January 30.

Ahearne spoke at Geneva airport after a meeting of the federation's executive committee here decided to turn the matter over to its North American committee—comprising the United States, Canada and Japan.

TWO ALTERNATIVES

According to a ruling made in 1959 by the federation, the Colorado Springs world championships can be transferred to Canada or West Germany if a competing team is refused entry to the United States.

Ahearne said the federation executive committee meeting here was unsuccessful because American members Walter Brown and Thayer Tutt were not satisfied that the United States actually had refused admisison to the East German team.

The issue was further complicated by the lack of a substitute country in which to hold the championships.

Ahearne said the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association told him Wednesday night it would be impossible to hold the championship there this year.

GALT CANADA'S TEAM

Galt Terriers have been named as Canada's representatives for the championships.

International federation officials told the Associated Press privately the world championships might be cancelled altogether this year if the East Germans receive no visas.

The officials said it was too late to organize the world championships elsewhere or to hold a separate European championship meet somewhere in Europe.

In Toronto, Gordon Juckes, secretary-manager of the CAHA, said it was unlikely the championships would be shifted to Canada. He doubted that Canada could afford the championships even if she were in a political position to take them.

ALBERTA BIDDING

But Calgary and Edmonton have offered to stage the games. The Calgary offer was made by Lloyd Turner on behalf of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Company. Edmonton's offer came from the Edmonton Exhibition Association.

Sources in Geneva said no U.S. action is expected on the visas before the end of the month. Officials said this would be too late for organizers of the championships to complete complex travel plans, accommodations, ticket sales, television rights and other matters.

Howe Paces Self But Don't Expect NY to Believe It

United Press International

Gordie Howe claims he's pacing himself more these days because he wants to become a 20-year man in the National Hockey League — but who can tell?

The rugged, indefatigable right wing popped in his 22nd and 23rd goals of the season Wednesday night as Detroit Red Wings handed New York Rangers their eighth straight defeat, 3-0.

Chicago Black Hawks edged Toronto Maple Leafs, 2-1, in the only other NHL game.

Howe, now in his 16th season with the Red Wings, started the current campaign with 469 regular season goals. His two-goal burst against the Rangers raised his career total to 492—which means he is a cinch to crack the 500-goal mark before the end of the season.

TWO OBJECTIVES

The 31-year-old workhorse is shooting for Maurice (Rocket) Richard's all-time record of 544 goals. That also appears within his grasp in a season or two, but Howe is equally interested in becoming a 20-year man.

"I want to play 20 years, so that's why I've started pacing myself," big Gord revealed after the game at Madison Square Garden. "I used to do a lot of needless skating around, but no more. I try to take things easier now."

Howe's latest outburst gave him 53 points for the season and left him only six back of New York's Andy Bathgate in their battle for the NHL scoring title. Gordie already has won the scoring crown five times and would like to add No. 6 this season.

"I've still got a long way to go, though, to catch Bathgate," he said. "If I can't catch him, I hope I come close."

SAWCHUK BRILLIANT

Howe bagged his first goal on a power play in the second period, flicking the puck past New York goalie Lorne Worsley from close range. He scored again in the final session on a breakaway with centre Len Lunde.

Alex Delvecchio scored Detroit's third goal, also on a second-period power play.

Goalie Terry Sawchuk shook off the effects of a wrenched shoulder he suffered in the middle session to post his fifth shutout of the season and help carry the Red Wings into fourth place ahead of the fast-sinking Rangers.

Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita scored for the Black Hawks, who solidified their hold on third place. The lone Toronto goal was tallied by Bert Olmstead with less than three minutes remaining.

Haida Squad To Tangle With Bakers

Haida Chiefs will be shooting for big fish February 10, but first they will tune up against a solid Senior "B" club from Vancouver.

Neil Sprinkling's senior basketball warriors will test St. Regis (10-3 on the Mainland), Saturday at 8.30, in Central Junior High gym. Victoria College "B" team and Chinese Students meet in a junior men's prelim at 7.

A measure of Chief's calibre will be determined February 10 when the New Westminster Bakers, tops in the Inter-City League with a 16-2 record, drop in to Central Junior High.

The game will be the last home exhibition for the Chiefs. After Bakers, Chiefs play three games in Vancouver before commencing Island playoffs with Alberni Athletics.

B.C. Gal Wins Skiing Event

SALLBACH, Austria (AP)—Vancouver's Nancy Greene today won the girls' international downhill event on Schattberg Mountain.

Miss Greene streaked down the 2.7-kilometre track, with nine gates over a drop of 750 metres, in two minutes and 9.1 seconds.

Linda Crutchfield of Shawinigan, Que., was third, after Austria's Edda Kainz, with a time of 2.11.8.

Martin Burger of Austria won the men's competition.

The competition was tough, although many of the top skiers were not entered here. They are participating in a contest at Cortina, Italy.

Alberni Hosts Four-Team Meet

ALBERNI—Three outstanding prep basketball teams will invade Port Alberni this weekend for a crack at the Alberni Chieftains and the Totem tournament prize.

Vancouver College, North Surrey and Courtenay are sending squads for the seventh annual high school show. Pre-tourney favorites are the Alberni District Chieftains. They have won the title four years out of six. The teams play Friday and Saturday nights.

Rivals Pack Rink

By The Canadian Press

The second largest crowd of the Western Hockey League season turned out Wednesday night at Portland, anticipating another all-out battle between the Buckaroos and Edmonton Flyers.

A near-capacity audience of 10,361 saw just what it expected as Portland took a 6-5 overtime win from Edmonton in a meeting of the division leaders.

The largest crowd of the season was 10,423 when Portland and Edmonton tangled on December 12 at Portland.

Wednesday's other game was at San Francisco, where the Seals scored a convincing 5-2 win over Calgary Stampeders before 4,149 fans.

Smooth centre Art Jones, the league's scoring champion last season, was the hero at Portland. He scored two goals and added two assists as the Buckaroos increased their Southern Division lead to 14 points over second-place Spokane Comets.

BIONDA CHASES ROOKIE

Jones' second goal of the game gave Portland the win after 5.19 of overtime. He beat the Edmonton goaltender, Gilles Boisvert, on a screened backhand shot after taking a pass from defenceman Jack Bionda.

Bionda gave the huge crowd some added excitement early in the second period when he fought with Edmonton rookie Larry Jeffrey. Bionda drew three minors as the instigator of the battle, while Jeffrey received one minor.

In addition to Jones, Arnie Schmautz also scored twice for the Buckaroos while Bill Saunders and Tom McVie added one each.

Chuck Holmes led Edmonton with two goals. Ed Joyal, Tom Burgess and Forbes Kennedy contributed singles.

Kennedy's goal at 18.54 of the third period sent the game into overtime.

HEAD, GOODWIN BACK

The game marked the return of goalie Don Head to the Portland club. Head, who sparked the Buckaroos to the league's playoff championship last year, started this season with Boston Bruins of the NHL but was last week replaced by Bruce Gamble.

Forward Arlo Goodwin also rejoined the Buckaroos after being out for a month with a knee injury while rookie defenceman John Miszuk was back in the Edmonton lineup. Miszuk had geen suspended for five games after striking an official two weeks ago.

Al Nicholson scored two goals as San Francisco defeated Calgary for the fifth time in six games this season.

BASEBALL SIGNINGS

Top-Line Stars Fall Into Fold

NEW YORK (CP) — Two prominent pitchers and a hard-hitting outfielder signed 1962 major league baseball contracts Wednesday.

Ace reliever Elroy Face, 34, agreed to terms with Pittsburgh Pirates and is heading into his ninth season in the National League. The right-hander appeared in 62 games last season, compiling a 6-12 won-lost record and an earned-run average of 3.82.

Baltimore Orioles got Jack Fisher, a regular starter on the mound, into the fold.

Outfielder Tito Francona signed with Cleveland Indians. In his third American League campaign with the Indians last year, he had a batting average of .301, hit 16 home runs and drove in 85 runs.

Other signings included:

New York Mets—Outfielder Gus Bell, pitcher Craig Anderson and catcher Clarence Coleman.

San Francisco Giants—Pitchers Paul Colacecchi, Matt Gayeski and Ray Feldman.

Chicago Cubs — Pitchers George Gerberman and Wayne Carlander, catcher Moe Tracker and infielder Jim McKnight.

Boys' Sides Renew Rivalry

A dandy from start to finish.

That's the way the Shawnigan Lake-University School rugger match shapes up Saturday at University grounds.

Teams tied 3-3 last year before Shawnigan embarked on its tour of England. Shawnigan went one up in December, turning back US 6-3 at Shawnigan.

Both squads are in expert hands. Shawnigan has Derek Hyde-Lay, ex-Cambridge as coach, assisted by Pat McLaughlin, former Scottish International. University is tutored by Rob Wilson, ex-Oxford Blue.

The game starts at 2.30.

Steelhead Derby

ALBERNI—Alberni District Fish and Game Association's annual one-day steelhead derby will open at dawn Saturday. Weigh-in station will be in Rotary Park, River Road, where prizes will be awarded following close of the derby at 3 p.m.

Stamps Send Canucks Goalkeeper on Loan

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Canucks announced Wednesday they have obtained goaltender Art Lariviere on loan from Calgary Stampeders.

Lariviere will fill part of a large hole created in the roster of the last-place Western Hockey League team earlier this week when Springfield Indians owner Eddie Shore recalled three players, including goal tender Claude Evans.

General manager Dave Dauphinee said he has appealed to all WHL clubs for help and he has hopes of getting more players.

Shore also pulled out defenceman Dale Anderson and forward Murray Wilkie.

Canucks, playing with only 12 men, were outlasted 8-6 by Edmonton Flyers Tuesday night. They had 23-year-old University of British Columbia student Ken Walters in the nets.

Walters has been the club's practice goalie. He is the property of Montreal Canadiens.

BOXING TANGLES . . . . . . START TO UNRAVEL

Archie Holding It Up

NEW YORK (AP)—One of boxing's three tangled titles has been solved, the solution to another is in the making and it's up to Archie Moore to unravel the third.

Moore has until Feb. 1 or 2 to sign for a title fight or face suspension by the New York Athletic Commission which, in effect, would strip him of the last piece of the light-heavyweight crown he has worn for nine years.

The disputed bantamweight title was settled last week when Eder Jofre of Brazil stopped Ireland's Johnny Caldwell. Each had claimed a share of the crown.

Announcement Wednesday of a Paul Pender - Terry Downes fight, with the winner going against Gene Fullmer, pointed towards probable settlement of the disputed middleweight title.

This leaves only the light-heavy crown still in question. Moore, who admits to being 48 and may be five or six years older, is recognized as champion in New York, Massachusetts and Europe. Harold Johnson of Philadelphia is recognized by the National Boxing Association.

Archie, shorn of the NBA version of the title because of inactivity, outpointed Italy's Guilio Rinaldi in New York last June 10. It was his first title defence in almost two years.

The New York commission last month warned him to defend or be suspended. The Massachusetts commission is almost certain to go along with any action by New York in the light-heavy ranks.

ANOTHER SLANT

By OSCAR FRALEY

MIAMI (UPI)—This fellow from Arkansas claims to weigh 601 pounds and his wife is a svelte 225 but "there ain't never no talk" in their house about diets or reducing.

That's because Haystack Calhoun, out of Morgan's Corner, Ark., is a wrestler billed on the grunt-and-groan circuit as "The Gentle Giant" and he don't take kindly to those "skinny, scrawny kind of gals."

There is a suspicion that Haystack may be gilding the bucket of suet a little.

For he looks to be only about 550 pounds, or so. But he's B-I-G, one of the largest in what he calls "scuffin'" whether you figure it in pounds or gate appeal. Haystack drew 33,080 fans into Chicago's Comiskey Park and once, at Jacksonville, "played" to 9,000 while down the street the local baseball team drew only 340 fans.

* * *

The body beautiful, as personified by Marilyn Monroe, boasts measurements of 39-23-37. Haystack's tape measure screams out an incredulous 72-62-54. That's six feet around the chest and five feet, two around what passes as a waist.

* * *

Laugh at it, if you will, but Haystack can chuckle all the way to the bank. He wrestles three and four nights per week and earns better than $15,000 a year.

The Calhouns need it, too, the price of meat and potatoes being what they are. Because Haystack considers it a light breakfast when he puts away a dozen eggs, two pounds of bacon, a dozen and a half hot biscuits and a half gallon of milk. For dinner he has a five-pound steak, a water bucket full of vegetables, a loaf of bread and another half-gallon of milk.

Pappy Told Haystack It's Indecent

It might take a ringful of psychiatrists to explain what makes rasslin' such a big draw, it being alleged in quite a few corners that it isn't strictly on the up and level as a contest. But the Miami Beach Convention Hall assuredly will be jammed Friday night when Haystack and his partner, Ray Villmer, waddle into action in a team match against the villains of the piece, Kurt and Karl Von Brauner.

Haystack will "pleasure" his fans by appearing as usual in overalls and with his good luck charm around his neck. This is a locket composed of a horseshoe pendant from a logging chain.

"I got to wear then over-hauls," he explains. "My pappy don' tole me long ago it's down right indecent to take off your clothes in front of women folk."

* * *

Haystack professes that he got into rasslin' once when he was "foolin' around scuffin' and a promoter saw him."

"Yo' mean you'll pay me for scuffin'?" Haystack asked open-mouthed. "Yo' mean I can make a livin' doin' the thing I love most?"

* * *

The man assured him it was so and "danged if it wasn't."

Haystacks' most effective weapon in the ring is what he calls the "big splash" is when Haystack hurls his massive poundage into a recumbent opponent.

"I learned that when I was a boy and weighed only about 400 pounds," he muses. "Used to do it to break up ma's kindlin' wood."

He still keeps in shape by practicing on two by 12 planks which, when he starts, are 10 feet long. When he's finished they make great toothpicks.

"Sure does keep a body in shape," Haystack smiles happily. "Helps the appetite, too."

Diet? It would run him right out of business.

University Splashers Score Easy Triumph

Winning 11 of the 13 events, University School chalked up an easy team triumph Tuesday in a United Cadet Services swimming meet.

University splashers, who included wins in all four relay events among their victories, collected a total of 176 points. Sea Cadets were second with 120, followed by Army Cadets, 108, and Air Cadets, 72.

University victors in individual races were Mark Johnson, Herbert Sweeting, Sid Custance, Gerry Gee, Dave Skidmore and Arthur Geissler, who won two events.

Breaking the University string were Sea Cadet swimmers PO William Hodson and OC Stephen Dufour.

ESQUIMALT CLICKS

Gallo's Shooting Riddles Optimists

A 17-point scoring effort by Mike Gallo carried First United to a 48-39 junior men's basketball victory over Victoria Optimists at Mount View gym Wednesday night.

TWO CHANGES FOR MINORS

Vancouver Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association will go ahead with a full schedule Saturday, the same one that had to be called off last weekend due to the chilling temperature and frozen grounds.

Only change calls for Gyros and Boys' Club of the 4th division to play Saturday at Vic High.

A change in site will see Hampton Eagles and Saanich Thistles of the Sunday 1st and 2nd divisions play at Vic High instead of Hampton.

Sailors Dump Junior Bruins

Nobody can say Esquimalt's Baby Bruins are picking their spots.

They tackled the senior Navy team at Esquimalt Sports Centre Wednesday. Navy won the exhibition hockey affair 5-2, hardly a runaway score. Noell Farian and Claude McKenzie, each with two goals, and John Bond tallied for the Tars. Joe Iannarelli Jr. and Fred Bridges scored for Bruins.

IN SOCCER

Scots Draw Tartars

The four teams sharing first place in the Victoria and District Soccer League each go their own separate ways Sunday.

Canadian Scottish seems to have been designated the toughest trail; Gorge Hotel the easiest, and the unpredictable to Duncan Rangers and Hourigan's Kickers.

The Scots face Victoria West, Harry Youson's well-regarded charges currently sharing second place—and but a point behind the four co-leaders—with Evcoes. That match is scheduled for Bullen Park.

Gorge plays 11th-ranked Ladysmith at Heywood Avenue Park; Kickers tackle Heaneys at the Topaz Avenue pitch, and Rangers face Brodies at Duncan.

In Sunday's other fixtures, Evcoes play Nanaimo at Central Park and Saanich Thistles meet Esquimalt at Reynolds Road Park.

All matches start 2 p.m.

COLUMBUS HERE SATURDAY

BEST TURNOUT EXPECTED

Fans Adding to Soccer Rivalry

Even the fans are helping to fan the flames of Pacific Coast Soccer League rivalry between Victoira United and Vancouver Columbus.

The Royal Athletic Park datebook has the teams listed for a 2 p.m. appointment Saturday.

Rivalry is such that the only good bet at the moment is that the season's largest crowd, in Victoria, is expected to be on hand. The previous high at Royal Athletic Park was 961, and United officials feel certain that Saturday's turnout will surpass the 1,000 mark.

But getting back to the fans . . .

Victoria's executive packed three buses Jan. 7 when United journeyed to Callister Park to play Pete Mainardi's power-laden Italians. (Over 3,000 sat in on that one. Columbus won 2-1 on the strength of two second-half goals. Remember?)

Mainardi, publisher of an Italian paper in Vancouver, has been accused of having the staunchest supporters on the mainland. So, Mainardi says, five busloads of fans will accompany Columbus to Victoria this weekend.

That, in itself, could add to the excitement.

The game launches the PCSL's second-half schedule.

Winnipeg Shops For Pro Hockey

WINNIPEG (CP)—A move is afoot to bring a youthful brand of professional hockey back to Winnipeg as a possible preliminary to obtaining a National Hockey League franchise.

Backers of the plan hope to have a team operating next season in Winnipeg, long a producer of top-flight hockey talent.

If the team draws well, this would set the stage in a few [illegible] an NHL franchise if the big league decides to expand.

PRIME MOVER

A prime mover in the project here is Denis Ball, manager of the junior Winnipeg Rangers and a scout for the team's sponsor, New York Rangers.

Ball says he is confident a team can be established "but the big stumbling block now is finding the right league to play in."

He is looking to the United States. The seven-team International League operating in the Midwest wants to expand and possibly go professional with Winnipeg as a suggested entry.

WANTS THEM YOUNG

Ball prefers a league with a player age limit of 26 and with teams stocked by sponsoring NHL clubs with their best young prospects.

In line with this he is investigating the possibility of setting up a new league, perhaps with Minneapolis and St. Paul among entries.

Ball is mindful that he will have to give customers a fast, high-quality brand of hockey to succeed at the gate.

Winnipeg dropped out of pro hockey last year with the demise of the Warriors, who lost money for six years in the Western Hockey League. Owner Jack Perrin said he lost $50,800 in the last season alone.

Ball's idea is for a team that in two or three years would be on a par with the American Hockey League, just a notch below NHL calibre.

Despite the gloomy history of the Warriors, Ball maintains Winnipeg is a "terrific hockey town" and is sure it can support pro hockey again.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who [illegible] will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered [illegible] a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Arthur Rock, 12, Ypsilanti, Mich., for his question:

What Is the Spectrum?

We see a perfect example of the spectrum when the glamorous rainbow loops over the sky. We may see a paler echo of these rainbow colors when sunshine plays on busy garden hose or on the foamy froth that sprays up from thundering Niagara Falls. We see it again when we make sunbeams shine through a clean glass bottle of clear water. And we can make the sharpest spectrum show itself through a glass prism.

Andy, who is of course a pixie, waters his garden in the company of a hummingbird, a ground robin, a Siamese cat and a traveling rainbow. His little rainbow is made by dewy drops of water from the hose playing tricks on the sunbeams and its scientific name is the spectrum of white light.

Light is a phenomenon, a fact of nature. It is a very energetic fact, traveling along in pulsing waves at about 186,000 miles a second. In white or colorless light there are longer and shorter waves of energy, all pulsing along together. These light waves can be compared to tiny hills and dales and a wave length is the distance from one crest to the next, or from one dip to the next—both of which are the same distance.

The shortest wave length of white light is about .000038 centimeters, the longest is about .000076 centimeters. The thickness of a sheet of note paper is equal to about 130 of these long waves and about 260 of the short waves. These various wave lengths mean nothing when white light is speeding from the sun across empty space. But when they reach our atmosphere, they start to fray apart, and then we see that each wave length is a strand of color.

Separated by Air Molecules

The short blue waves are separated by the air molecules and scattered over the sky. At dawn and sunset, the sun's light slopes through a thicker slice of air and the longer wave lengths are scattered over the sky. In a rainbow, all the wave lengths of light are unraveled in a variegated band of color. This band of color is the spectrum of white light.

A prism is a triangular-shaped rod of clear glass. When a beam of white light strikes a sloping side of the prism, its different wave lengths are bent at different angles. They fan out and pass through the far side in a skein of colors. If you let it fall on a sheet of paper or a white wall, you can see clearly that the spectrum of white light is a vivid band of red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet—with countless tones and half tones between each definite line of color.

Science uses the spectrum to identify any substance on earth or on the faraway stars. When a substance is burned, its incandescent gases can be sent through a prism and each will write its own signature on the band of colors. The gases from a speck of burning sodium will add a vivid streak to the yellow line. Helium also adds to the yellow band, but at a point nearer the blue end of the spectrum.

Tests Are Forever Not Just in School

By JACK HUTTON

A friend stopped me on the street the other day with a smug air and asked: "What would be the answer if you divided 30 by ½ and added 10?"

My answer was immediate and equally smug. "Twenty-five!"

"Wrong," said he. "To divide by one-half you would invert and multiply. That would give you 60, so the final answer would be 70, not 25."

The question was a basically simple one but typical of the many questions with which psychologists attempt today to measure that vague something called INTELLIGENCE.

Anyone entering university nowadays usually writes an intelligence test on top of the usual papers. The same is true of anyone entering the armed forces or trying for promotion in a large firm.

Many question just how well these tests really measure intelligence, but the Canadian teen-ager can be certain of one thing: he or she will be writing tests for the rest of his or her working life.

No Peeking

No one can really "bone up" for the questions, but a few old chestnuts eternally crop up. How would you do if these were suddenly thrown at you? (The answers are printed below—but don't peek in advance.)

1.—Imagine a man looking at a portrait and saying, "Sisters and brothers I have none, but that man's father is my father's son." Who is the person in the picture?

2.—When you've unknotted that one, imagine two bicycles approaching one another on a perfectly straight road at the rate of 15 miles per hour.

When they are 30 miles apart, a horsefly lights upon one and immediately heads for the other and begins shuttling back and forth at the rate of 20 m.p.h. until the two men meet. How far has the horsefly travelled by this point?

3—If both of these seem too easy for you, watch out for this ancient "trick" question. A tramp decides he would like a smoke and starts looking for butts in the park.

Now this cagey old gentleman knows seven butts make a good cigarette and eventually collects 49 butts. If he smokes them non-stop at the rate of one every 45 minutes, how long does he smoke?

4—An elderly gentleman had just started on his holiday when he got letter from his butler informing that it would be impossible to forward the mail on to him because he had taken the mailbox key.

The chap immediately stuck the key into an envelope and sent it home. A few days later the piled-up mail was forwarded to his resort. What's wrong with this story?

The answers: 1—It must be his own son; 2—20 miles, since the bicyclists would meet in exactly one hour; 3 — Six hours. Remember each "new" cigarette yields a fresh butt; 4 — the butler obviously couldn't get the key out of a locked mailbox.

Toughest Question

If you solved all of these questions quickly, I'd love to shake your hand. You must Also be ready for the grandfather of all trick logic questions. (Just for interest I'll hang on to the answer until next week).

Three friends were sitting together on a train when it went into a tunnel. When it emerged each had a smudge on his forhead. Before they could chat about it a stranger approached them.

"I'd like to find how logical you are, gentlemen," he said. "Would each of you put up his right hand, if he sees at least one smudge (each put up his hand). Now none of you knows whether he has a smudge. Would the first one tc figure out whether he has one or not lower his hand?"

There was a pause and then the most quick-witted of the three roared with laughter and said, "Of course, I've got one!" How did he figure it out? (Let us know if you have any you'd like the rest of us to try.)

New Singer

Canada has a new young singer with a brand new name. But he hopes he and his friends will never forget that his real name is one the public doesn't know.

Kenney Karen of Montreal, who turned 18 two weeks ago, has just started on a tour sponsored by Columbia Records which will take him across the continent and include an appearance on the Ed Sullivan television show.

His real name: Chaim Hillel Teicher. Chaim's father is Rabbi Isaac Teicher of Beth-David Beth Synagogue in Montreal and both considered very carefully the singing career before Chaim accepted it.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "Isn't that What's-His-Name?" twittered a woman customer as Richard Boone, star of 477 TV shows, strode wide-shoulderedly into the Tower Suite for dinner.

"A woman just called you 'What's-His-Name'" I told him —he who had just been bowed in and deferred to by the maitre d', assistant maitre d', the captain, waiter, waitress, wine steward press agent and me.

Boone didn't even shrug.

He'd been lingering at the windows looking down at what he called the "burning embers" of the New York dusk as seen from above.

"YOU DO"

"It's very nice to say you don't enjoy recognition. But when the guy in the elevator starts treating you differently, you do!" he said.

Yet he was hoping to cut down on a slice of it. After 192 "Have Gun, Will Travel" shows, 60 "Medic" shows, and 225 assorted live shows, he was hoping not to be renewed on "Have Gun" for another season.

"I hate to tarnish something," he explained. "I've been proud of the five years. But with writers struggling to produce something fresh, and me having to sweat and strain, would be to rub off the shine. . . ."

CHALLENGE

He was here not only to do "John Brown's Body" on CBS—but to look for a Broadway show—one so different that he would be scared to do it.

"A part," he elaborated, "that makes you say, 'I don't know whether I can do this or not, but I'll have a go at it!' Not one that when you look at it, you say, 'That. Yeah, I did that in 1937.'"

Boone's whole conversation bespoke his admiration for great actors—Gielgud, Olivier, and of course, Martin Gabel ("a really cultured gentleman") with whom he appeared on Broadway doing the Lincoln-Douglas debates in "The Rivalry".

"But could Olivier do Paladin?" I asked.

"Olivier could do a cakewalk!" shot back Boone.

Boone mentioned he had been fortunate (in "John Brown's Body") in working with actors not disturbed at doing roles in rhyme. There was, for example, one verse that in rehearsal disturbed him, simple though it was.

"Buell and Grant against Bragg and Beauregard . . ."

OFF TRACK

"If you hit anything wrong in pronouncing that, it's like one car in an express train. Everything goes off the track. . . ." he said.

Bone said it quite correctly, sitting at dinner, "I can do it fine here. We should do the show here," he said.

Boone does not love everybody in Hollywood, as he has lived there. I will merely mention that several times when a name was brought up, and I said, 'I never met him," he would say, "Don't bother to."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Connie Francis and MGM negotiated their new million-dollar contract for two months—and when she finally went to sign it they'd spelled her name wrong.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A fellow complained that his son in college has terrible handwriting: "I can hardly make out how much he wants me to send him."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Much more painful than acting like a fool is the sudden realization that you weren't acting.—Quote.

'Hypocrisy' Hit On A-Arms Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) accused the government Wednesday of following a double standard on nuclear armaments that has made Canada a laughing stock on the international scene.

He challenged the government in the Throne Speech debate to have the "guts" to state a policy for or against nuclear arms for Canadian forces and submit it to the judgment of the electorate at a general election.

". . . One of the greatest heartbreaks of my life is to see the way in which this government has brought Canada into international disrepute and made her the laughing stock of the nations of the world."

At the United Nations, External Affairs Minister Green sponsored a resolution for no expansion of the nuclear club. At the same time, Canadian forces were equipped with weapons useful only with nuclear warheads.

"It is political hypocrisy and hypocrisy is conscious and deliberate dishonesty," said Mr. Winch.

ENGINEER Tonasz Biernacki, 37, a landed immigrant from Poland, was freed for the second time within a year in Montreal Wednesday from a charge of spying for the Polish intelligence service.

FLEMING DEFENDS TRADE POLICY

Liberals 'Indifferent' to Commonwealth

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming accused the Liberal party of indifference to Canadian trade interests in Britain.

The Liberals in the past had shown indifference to the Commonwealth as an institution and opposition to the system of Commonwealth tariff preferences, he said Wednesday during the Commons throne speech debate.

Mr. Fleming said that if Britain entered the European Common Market without protection for Commonwealth trade interests "our industry and trade could suffer enormous losses and distortions."

Canada welcomed Britain's assurances it would seek such protection in its current negotiations for membership in the six-nation market.

But the Liberal party had been "trying to push Britain into the Common Market."

The finance minister described as "untruths and distortions" charges by the Liberal party that relations between Canada and Britain had been strained.

The decision as to whether Britain would join the Common Market was one the British government alone would make.

The Canadian government had "properly, frankly and amicably" expressed its concern over such a move "as was our duty". This had greatly strengthened Britain's hand in negotiations with the Common Market.

Now Canada had sent a strong team of experts to the negotiations in Brussels to provide Britain with all the information required on Canadian trade.

Mr. Fleming also referred to President Kennedy's new proposal that the United States administration be empowered to offer major reductions in United States tariffs in return for similar trade concessions by the Common Market.

"We have expressed our policy in virtually identical terms".

'UP TO 750 PER CENT'

Price Spread on Drugs Cited

REGINA (CP)—The question of drug costs, which has run like a refrain through the Manitoba-Saskatchewan hearings of the royal commission on health services, cropped up again Wednesday.

Alfred Pepper, Regina pharmacist and president of the Saskatchewan Pharmaceutical Association, told the commission there is a spread of 750 per cent in the price drug stores pay for certain drugs and the price the government and hospitals pay.

He cited one case in which cortisone tablets cost $17 a hundred to the drug store and anywhere from $1.95 to $7 to government and hospitals.

Mr. Pepper said the wide price spread ranges over a relatively small number of items, which are in heavy use. He did not know the price differential on the average drug.

J. L. Summers, director of pharmaceutical services at University Hospital in Saskatoon, said there was a spread between $4.29 and $19 on quotes received by the hospital for 500 of a particular type of tablets.

Mr. Summers, requested by Commissioner O. J. Firestone, agreed to try to furnish the commission with comparative prices for the same drugs sold at the retail level.

The Co-operative Union of Saskatchewan appealed to the commission, in a brief, to review the drug situation "so that the public can be assured that drug prices are not excessive."

'Y' Job Doesn't Always Show on Program Sheet

By JOHN BASSETT

Emblem of Service

On a scrubby field behind the parade square where Chiang Kai Shek's nationalist troops stand 24-hour guard, a ragged but happy group of 10-year-olds practised baseball.

It was spring training, Formosa style.

In a makeshift Jordan classroom hut a young boy in old khakis fingered the books before him, grasping at every letter.

Blind, and an Arab refugee, he sought learning.

In Italy two 12-year-olds chatted with a teacher and listened to lesson on citizenship; in Sao Paulo a Brazilian nine-year-old sat quietly with a friend surmising the intricacies of a chess game, and in the Philippines a handful of lads supervised a whole village's irrigation project.

Common Beginning

In spirit, mind and body all [illegible] ginning; they were part of the world program of the Young Men's Christian Association, the YMCA.

This week, Jan. 21-28, is YMCA week acros North America. Put aside for purposes of public relations and re-recruiting, the week stresses the job the YMCA does in 76 countries.

Open to boys of every race, creed and color, the YMCA has become more than a place to heave basketballs and take swimming lessons.

Lasting Associations

Across Canada and the United States it develops boys into men and gives them lasting associations of duty and friendship. In the crowded slums of big cities like Chicago and New York, the "Y" has become a haven from delinquency.

In its confines mix Jews, Poles, Negroes, Swedes, Germans, Chinese, Japanese, Americans and Canadians.

But it is more in the destitute areas, the conflict-ridden lands, the Y has concentrated its drive. A new "Buildings for Brotherhood" program sets a goal of $16,000,000 for the construction of facilities in 34 of these struggling countries.

Know Christian Way

Of the total, $5,000,000 is expected from North America. It will be allocated to the continued growth and addition of the 10,000 YMCA centres [illegible]

From these centres will go skills and knowledge that many boys now do not know even exist, and from these centres will also go a clear understanding of the Christian way of life.

"It is the associations the Y starts that we really aim at, something you can't see on a program sheet," said F. V. Shoemaker, Victoria general secretary.

The spreading of these associations is the transcendant purpose of the Y, and Jan. 21-28 YMCA Week, is the time set aside to remember it.

Funeral Held Here For 2nd CMR Veteran

The funeral was held on Saturday of Captain Edward Bruce Irving, former president of the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles' Association.

Captain Irving's paternal grandfather was Sir Aemilius Irving, first bencher for Upper Canada and a QC, and his father was the Hon. Mr. Justice Paulus Aemilius Irving of the B.C. supreme court and court of appeal.

His maternal grandfather was Hon. Wymond Hamley, first collector of customs for the crown colony of Vancouver Island.

RMC GRADUATE

Born in Victoria, Captain Irving attended Sherborne preparatory, Repton and Charterhouse schools in England. A graduate of Royal Military College, Kingston, he rose to the rank of major in the Second Canadian Mounted Rifles in the First World War. He served also with the Veterans' Guard in the Second World War.

He died at home, 567 Agnes Street, last week. He was 77.

Honorary pallbearers at the funeral were original members of the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles. They were W. C. Warren, T. Waffon, R. J. Darcus, H. B. Nash, G. Knight, A. V. Hodding and A. J. Lowery.

Pallbearers were W. J. Fraser, E. Belton, T. L. Claydon, F. T. Lavery, N. E. Parsons, and Hugh Maurice.

The service was conducted by Chaplain I. R. Edwards, RCN, in Hayward's Funeral Chapel. Interment followed in the family plot at the Ross Bay Cemetery.

Captain Irving is survived by the widow, Kathleen, at home; two sons, Wymond Bruce and Bruce Gordon, of Victoria; a daughter, Mrs. Hope Jennens, South Pender Island; a sister; eight grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Language Broadcasts

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Broadcast Governors moved Tuesday to the aid of immigrants unable to speak either English or French. The BBG said it is prepared to allow Montreal and Toronto radio stations to use 25 to 40 per cent of their air time between 6 a.m. and midnight for foreign-language programs.

JUDGE URGES ABOLITION OF DIVORCES

PORTLAND (AP) — A circuit court judge said Wednesday divorce should be abolished and the federal government should control marriage laws.

Ralph Holman, judge at Oregon City, said divorce laws are "an abomination and long overdue for re-evaluation." He spoke to the East Side Commercial Club.

He said the sole concern of the courts should be children, not parents. He said legal separations should be allowed, but couples should not be allowed to remarry.

'Skyscraper' Hotel For Roundabout Site?

RICKETY BUILDINGS DUE FOR RAZING

A special meeting of city parks committee Wednesday recommended revamping of the concession system for several parks and beaches. If accepted, the plan would result in demolition of dilapidated concession buildings at Thetis Lake Park (see picture), Eagle Park, and Hamsterley Beach. A temporary concession would be operated from a trailer at Thetis Lake Park until an earth fill program created a site for a new concession and dressing room building. The concession at Royal Athletic Park would be improved and leased to Victoria Soccer League from September to April and to Victoria Amateur Baseball Association from May to September. The recommendations also call for obtaining cost estimate for a concession building at Macdonald Park.

. . . HERE . . . AND THERE

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Bright ideas for celebrating Victoria's centennial year continue to reach this office . . .

One is that the mayor of Victoria and the mayor of Port Angeles (also enjoying its centennial) should each throw 20 bottles containing goodwill messages into the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Whichever mayor gets the first message would receive a plaque (says my correspondent) and the occasion could be marked by the firing of a gun.

What about an extra gun for the beachcomber who picks up the first bottle reaching shore?

Mr. Justice David Verchere from Vancouver looked a bit mystified when Dr. Donald Whitley—a witness in Supreme Court here—stated that he lived on Mystic Lane, Victoria.

"Where did you say?" asked the judge.

"Mystic Lane, my lord—that is my home."

"An interesting name," mused the judge, as if expecting another of those quaint old Victoria legends.

On the eve of a breath-taking orbital flight around the globe by American astronaut John Glenn, Victoria Public Library offers a report of the first man to rise above the ground.

It's Smithsonian Institution Report of Advanced Aeronautics of 1864 records that on June 5, 1783, Joseph Michel Montgolfier left the earth in a gas-filled balloon and remained aloft for fully 10 minutes.

How they must have gasped!

Many readers have responded to an inquiry about an ancient postcard addressed to Mrs. Trickey, care of Heal Post Office, Vancouver Island, in 1898, and discovered in a wrecked building by Victoria contractor Michael Peddlesden.

James Bryant, 1140 Esquimalt Road, believes the card was addressed to Mrs. William Trickey, wife of a well-known Royal Oak builder.

Their daughter was Elizabeth Trickey who worked in the Royal Oak telephone office from 1908 to 1912 and is now Mrs. George Fisher of 2575 West Eighth, Vancouver.

Former Minister Leads Grit Group On Speaking Tour

Former minister of immigration, Jack Pickersgill, with two other prominent members of the Liberal party, will speak in Victoria in the next two weeks.

Mr. Pickersgill will fly from Vancouver, where he attended a nomination convention today, and will speak to Victoria College students at noon on Friday.

Also attending the Vancouver convention is Julie LaMarsh, Liberal MP for Niagara Falls. She will speak at Langford Community Hall at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

A visit by Walter Gordon, economic adviser to the party, is scheduled for Feb. 12, when he will speak at the Laurier Club in the evening.

Injury Loss In Accident Argued

How much does a person lose by being injured in an auto accident?

The question was fought out in B.C. Supreme Court Wednesday afternoon and evening by counsel for two parties involved in a collision at the corner of Scott and Ryan Streets on April 7, 1960.

J. Alan Baker, QC, claimed that Mrs. Christine Laura Hartley, 2700 Asquith, had suffered loss of employment, severe injuries and nervous repercussions from the accident.

TAUGHT FULL WEEK

The Hartley's car was said to have been struck by another car driven by Richard F. Saunders, 1632 Kings Road, and owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Buxton, 1797 Cultra.

Dr. Donald Whitley, Victoria physician, said Mrs. Hartley used to teach school every day of the week, but since the accident she had only been able to teach two days a week. She was still suffering from tension and nervous strain.

"Tension and stress are fairly common today, even among people who have not been involved in accidents," said Allan McEachern, counsel for the Toronto General Insurance Company.

RECOVERING

He suggested to Dr. Whitley that Mrs. Hartley had made "considerable recovery" since the accident.

"I would say reasonable recovery," the doctor answered.

"Her physical activities are still limited to about 75 or 80 per cent of normal."

Mr. McEachern stated that Mrs. Hartley has a husband and one child and is still able to teach in school.

"Surely that is a more than normal degree of activity," he suggested.

The court sat Wednesday until 10 p.m. so that Mr. Justice David Verchere, the presiding judge, could attend the opening of the Legislature this afternoon; but more evidence was heard this morning.

11-Year-Old Sounds Alarm In Robbery

Safeway Store Hit By Thieves

An 11-year-old boy sparked a city-wide search early Wednesday evening when he reported a daring raid by two youths on the Safeway Store at Fort and Foul Bay.

The boy, David Rule, of 1635 Chandler, told police he saw the youths drive away from the store in a 1950 model black car. They were heading west on Fort, he said.

City police in co-operation with Oak Bay police immediately started an extensive search for the thieves who took $280 worth of goods from the store, but couldn't trace them.

The pair used a sledgehammer to smash their way into the premises through a plate glass window. The window is in full view of passing motorists and pedestrians.

CLEAVER USED

Once inside the store they used a meat cleaver to smash a padlock hasp and got into the tobacco room where they took $245 worth of cigarettes in cartons.

The store office also was broken into, manager A. J. Romano said, and the drawers ransacked. No attempt was made to enter a nearby safe.

Before they left, the youths helped themselves to about $35 worth of sirloin steaks from a display counter.

Outside they loaded the haul into the rear of their car and it was at this time that young David came cycling by on his way home from a basketball game. He is a student at St. Patrick's School and was taking a short cut across the parking lot.

OFFERED CIGARETTES

He said the pair, aged 19 or 20, offered him some cigarettes which he refused and then asked him not to tell anybody he had seen them.

As soon as they left, he dashed to a nearby house to telephone the police but the householders weren't impressed by his story and turned him away. He had more success at the second house he called on—1911 Foul Bay—and summoned police from there.

PLAN FOR BEAVER LAKE

Mother Goose Folk May Inhabit Woods

Goldilocks and her Three Bears, Humpty Dumpty sitting on his wall—and a full-size cow jumping over a fibreglass moon will materialize at Beaver Lake Park this summer if two enterprising students get their way.

Alfred Pettersen, 24, third-year education student at Victoria College, and Douglas Hackman, 19, a Grade 13 student from Vernon, are planning a children's Wooded Wonderland as a centennial project.

They will display 40 or 50 fibreglass figures of famous nursery rhyme characters such as Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary; Little Jack Horner; The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe; Jack and Jill and Little Miss Muffet.

The students hope to stage the attraction on two and a half acres of woodland between the entrance and exit roads to Beaver Lake on the Patricia Bay Highway.

But this will depend on their application to lease the land from Victoria city council. The application will be considered at Friday's council meeting.

"In view of the need for Centennial projects, we hope the council will co-operate," Mr. Pettersen said. "We want to make this a permanent summer attraction and we will spare no effort to make it a success."

COST $10,000

Cost of developing and operating Wooded Wonderland is estimated at $10,000. The fibreglass figures, with colored plastic covering, are being made by Vancouver sculptor Elek Imredy, while Mrs. Hazel Jones of Victoria is producing a number of small clay figures such as gnomes and rabbits.

Mr. Pettersen and Mr. Hackman will share the supervision of Wooded Wonderland during summer vacations. Their parents are putting up capital for the venture.

"There is a similar children's park at Revelstoke," Alfred said, "but the setting at Beaver Lake is much more suitable for this kind of attraction.".

Demolition Of Houses Under Way

Construction of a major new hotel at the Roundabout is expected to start this spring as demolition of several buildings began this week to clear a site.

Maurice Winecure, 1258 Yates, owner of the fire-destroyed Monterey Restaurant, today admitted the work was aimed at "clearing the way" for a major project but he declined to say what it was.

However, persistent rumors of a $3,000,000 hotel gathered force as workmen began tearing down houses on Market Street, behind the restaurant site.

21 STOREYS

Usually reliable sources indicated that the new hotel would be a high-rise structure, possibly as high at 21 storeys and would boast a swimming pool on the roof.

A beer parlor would front on Market, where the houses are coming down now, while a service station would be located on the tip of the property's Hillside-Douglas corner.

Houses being demolished now, owned by Bali Kudra who is an associate of Mr. Winecure's, are at 715, 723 and 731 Market.

A demolition permit also has been taken out for another two-storey house, at the corner of Market and Douglas, which is owned by Mr. Winecure.

'ON ITS WAY'

Mr. Winecure said he hopes to be able to make a concrete statement in a few weeks "because what we are planning appears to be on its way." He would elaborate no further.

In order to raise mortgage money from financial institutions for the project, the developers likely would have to put up about 10 per cent themselves.

It is understood that $140,000 has been committed by the mortgagor of the Monterey Restaurant and that a further $30,000 has been obtained in advance from a lease of the corner tip for a service station.

Surface Lots For Parking To Come First

Surface parking lots likely will be established first before two proposed civic off-street parking garages are erected downtown.

This probability emerged today as members of the city's advisory parking committee awaited scheduling of a meeting to decide the "build or clear" problem.

Downtown ratepayers last year approved a $1,115,000 bylaw for construction of a 400-car garage on View, between Blanshard and Douglas, and a 200-car garage in the Bastion Square area.

But, since then, several persons have suggested it would be wiser to buy the sites, demolish buildings to clear them and establish surface parking lots to test the demand at those locations.

One informed source today indicated that feeling among committee members is leaning towards this direction.

Another close observer pointed out even if buildings were put up quickly, there probably still would be a short period for testing the locations with surface lots.

U.S. Planes Still Hunt Catamaran

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter and amphibious plane continued a so-far fruitless hunt today for two men believed aboard a missing catamaran off the Washington coast.

The men, identified as Bernhardt Abel and Franz Geigle, left Victoria in November with the expressed intention of cruising to Mexico by easy stages.

They sailed from La Push, Wash., about 2 a.m. Sunday, and were last seen at noon the same day by the lighthouse keeper on Destruction Island.

A third crew member, Wolfgang Giffels, hitchhiked to Grays Harbor and set off the search when he was unable to locate his companions.

Memorial Arena's Deficit One-Tenth Reported Figure

A Times report Wednesday noting a $28,000 deficit in Memorial Arena operations was somewhat more than 10 times wrong.

Actual deficit for the last seven months of 1961 was $2,540, instead of $28,342 as reported in error.

The latter figure was the total liabilities of the arena's operation, after subtraction of the deficit. It was balanced by an equal amount in total assets.

The Times regrets any embassassment to the arena management.

New Pot-Kettle Handles Save Broken Down Blues

By PENNY SAVER

Have quite a collection of odds and ends piling up in my notebook so today's the day to clear a few of them out.

Ever have the handle of a perfectly good pot or kettle break, making it practically useless? Don't go out and buy a a new one! Buy a new handle instead. I've seen them, black treated plastic with grooves for holding and in many different sizes to fit almost every utensil.

Ranging in price according to size, kettle handles are from 75 cents to $1.35. Pot handles are from 25 to 95 cents.

Ashtrays always full in your house? Ours, too, so my mind was really busy calculating, when I thought of the trips I would save to empty them during an evening of television by purchasing giant, giant-sized ashtrays.

Ones I've seen measure seven inches in diameter, are amber colored and feature four lips for cigarettes. Price is reasonable, 85 cents each.

Add enjoyment to that dinner salad by using attractive salad bowls. I've seen some made of a light shade of hardwood, tastefully designed and well finished. Price is tasteful too. Only 95 cents each.

The younger set loves to indulge in coke parties and I've seen just the thing to save furniture during these sessions. Pretty elasticized coasters, made of terry toweling, that fit right on the pop bottles.

Designed in multi-colored stripes these coasters will be a hit at any time. Another hit will be the purchase price of six for $1.95.

Call me now if you're wondering where these items can be found.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

As Soon as You Suspect Pregnancy, See Your Doctor

Lowman

Having a baby is probably the most thrilling and heart-warming experience a woman can have and, today, it should be an entirely safe one. When complications and fatalities occur (a very small percentage), it is usually because of neglect, which usually is due to lack of information.

Most women know that it is essential to put themselves in the hands of a competent physician as soon as they have any reason to suspect that they are pregnant. This should be done immediately because most of the conditions which are dangerous can be controlled if they are diagnosed early enough. Do not procrastinate!

Not only will the doctor's guidance be best for your health and the baby's, but your figure will benefit, too.

On your first visit your physician probably will ask a lot of questions which you may think silly, but the information he gleams will help him safeguard you. He may want to know about any serious illnesses you have had, or any physical abnormalities you may have. He will be interested in any heriditary diseases in your family.

He will weigh you and probably take pelvic measurements. He will investigate your blood pressure. He may at some time want a sample of your blood in order to determine your blood type, and for other reasons.

He will ask you to come to see him periodically, and will keep a close check on your blood pressure, your urine and your weight, and he will give you diet advice all through the nine months.

Having a baby is the most natural and the most delightful thing a woman can do. Don't make it otherwise by thinking that since you are so healthy it is ridiculous for you to see a doctor.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Care During Pregnancy — Reconditioning After Pregnancy" (leaflet No. 21) send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your requests for each to Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

Wedding Vows in Brentwood Church

White chrysanthemums decorated Brentwood United Church when Janet Louise Tidman exchanged vows with Kenneth Neil Scott. Rev. C. Hooper officiated at the candlelight ceremony.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tidman of Brentwood and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Scott of Duncan.

Entering the church on her father's arm the bride was lovely in a gown of pure silk peau de soie that had a Camille neckline and lily point sleeves. Cathedral train of full skirt was highlighted at back waistline with a French rose. Bouffant veil of silk illusion net misted from two bridal roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Bridal roses enhanced back waistlines of full-skirted gowns of American Beauty velvet worn by matron of honor, Mrs. B. Casillio, and bridesmaids, the Misses Joan Cooper, Nancy Tidman, the bride's sister, and Lynn Scott, sister of the groom. Bridal roses were worn in their hair. They carried cascade bouquets of white feathered chrysanthemums.

[illegible] light velvet of the senior attendants' gowns was worn by petite flower girl, Elizabeth Tidman, another sister of the bride. Red roses were in the basket she carried.

Raynor Newell, Courtenay, was best man and ushering guests were Ronald Tidman, Bob Casillio and Ian McCallum.

Ceil Chapman gown in mink-toned peau de soie and flowered hat in complementing tones was worn by the bride's mother when she received guests at a reception in Holyrood House. The groom's mother wore an imported ensemble in Caribbean aquamarine mohair and white accessories.

Dr. Ben Moyls, Vancouver, proposed the toast to the bride. Rosebuds and white tulle surrounded the wedding cake that centred the head table. White candles in silver candelabra completed decor. Guests' tables were arranged with white candles and red carnations.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to California the bride donned a stroller suit in Black Magic adapted from a Dior design and trimmed with Persian lamb at the wedding ring neckline. White fur hat, white accessories and gardenia corsage completed her ensemble.

Newlyweds will make their home at 7035 Wallace Drive, Brentwood.

IT'S A STORY

French Boy Now Indian Trader

By PAT DUFOUR

He was ten years old, French, and full of excitement as the ship docked in a Canadian port. His name was Desire F. de Tremaudan and the year, 1893.

Dufour

In his young mind this new country would be peopled with cowboys and Indians and he wondered what was ahead as he and his family headed for the Northern Saskatchewan homestead that would be their home.

It was an adventure of adventures when, on the first night of the long prairie trek, Desire and his father and brother slept in an abandoned mud teepee.

A yellowed picture of that teepee in which they continued to sleep until their first home was built is one of M. de Tremaudan's prized possessions. And his close friendship with the Indians that first caught his imagination has been almost life-long.

It was back in 1936 that he met his wife, Berthe, and began a business association that was to end in marriage four years later.

"We both lived in The Pas, Man." reminisces Berthe. "I had come to Canada from Belgium in 1920 and when we met I was a music teacher—giving violin lessons and earning very little."

BASQUE BERETS

In search of ways in which to increase her income she called in at the dry goods store where M. de Tremaudan worked to ask his advice about the possibility of importing Basque berets and selling them to the Indians.

M. de Tremaudan was immediately fascinated with the idea and for a year the two of them wrote letters to firms all over France, trying to place a small order.

"But," says M. de Tremaudan with a Gallic shrug, "it was impossible. No one was interested in supplying such a small firm with not even an imposing name!"

In desperation they decided to call themselves the "Societe D'Importation" and the results were electrifying. Overnight, French exporters waxed enthusiastic over the little Canadian enterprise.

Next step was to contact the local bishop under whose care were many of the northern Indian schools.

FIRST ORDER

"He gave us an order right away and with his cheque we sent off for our first supplies. We were in business," recalls M. de Termaudan with a contagiously merry laugh.

"From then on we never looked back. Soon we were shipping to Indian schools, hospitals and reservations all over Canada. It wasn't long before our biggest orders were for the pure silk thread and tiny seed and bugle beads with which the Indians make the intricate designs on moccasins, belts and other pieces."

During the last war they found it impossible to get pure silk thread and substituted with Canadian rayon.

CONCENTRATE ON BEADS

But," says M. de Tremaudan, "we don't sell so much thread now. The Indians found that the rayon rotted when they wore their moccasins in the snow, so instead of embroidery, they turned more to beadwork for decoration."

He and his wife bought their Pat Bay Highway home while on a three-week holiday in 1943.

Says his wife, "We came in April when the flowers were all out. I insisted that we buy a home before we went back so that we would have to return and live here." Months later, the Societe D'Importation had a Victoria address.

Their desk is full of lively letters from Indian friends with such delightful names as Bonnet Rouge and Sarah Chief. No wonder that, though now pushing 80 years, M. de Tremaudan has no plans for retiring.

DIOR PRESENTS SHORT SKIRTS, BLOUSED TOPS

PARIS (AP)—Extra short skirts and low waists with blouse-like tops and sculptured shapes highlighted the spring and summer collection presented today by the House of Dior.

Designer Marc Bohan also showed suits of heavy tweed with masculine checks and pin-stripes, with loose blouses reaching just below the waist and straight skirts.

Early-day wear was almost serious, with black and white checks and white-striped greys.

The suits recalled the 1930s in mood, and dresses were definitely from the 1920s.

There were some ultra low necklines and several dresses had huge bumptious bows well down the back.

Coats were bright, with a striking saffron model looking like a lemondrop.

Dress pleats reached from neck to skirt. There were crepes of pastel green, orange and pink with panels of pleats in the centre of the dress or on the side.

Classic Black, Mink Stoles, and Rainbow Colors at Opening

By ELIZABETH FORBES

When the guns boomed out at 3 o'clock this afternoon to mark the arrival of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor for the opening of the third session of the 26th Legislature of British Columbia, the floor of the House was filled not only with Members of the Legislature but with the many special guests invited to witness the traditional ceremony.

Adding color and warmth to the scene were the smart feminine ensembles that, despite January's uncertain weather, breathed more than a hint of spring.

One of two feminine guests invited to the first State Dinner in Government House, Wednesday evening, Hon. Buda Brown was escorted by Hon. Earle Westwood, centre, and Hon. P. A. Gaglardi. Mrs. Brown's gown is champagne-toned satin with pleated folds on the bodice extending into a side panel lined with leaf-green marquisette. She topped it with a white fox clutch cape.

Mrs. George R. Pearkes, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor, was seated to the left of the Speaker's chair, where her husband stood to read the Speech from the Throne. She wore a teal blue two-piece dress with matching bead embroidery on collar and cuffs. A beige toned hat with brown feather side trim, beige shoes, white gloves and a pastel mink stole completed her ensemble.

Also at the left of the Speaker's chair was Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, wife of the Premier of the province.

Her French model black-knit dress featured an ultra-smart divided pannier over the front of the skirt. It was bound with black satin, as were neckline and cuffs. Her hat of fine woven black straw was a head-hugging cloche with a slightly diagonal shaped crown covered with white flowers. Her jewels were pearls and she wore a pastel mink cape.

GREY AND GREEN

Mrs. R. B. Wilson, wife of the new Mayor of Victoria chose a charcoal grey two-piece dress with pillbox cloche of shaded green flowers. Pearl jewelry and furs completed her outfit.

A wide band of turquoise peacock feathers with tiny back bow highlighted the high-rising hat of gathered turquoise satin chosen by Mrs. Robert Strachan, wife of the Opposition Leader. Black accessories and pearls were worn to complement her suit of fine black wool.

A raspberry red sheath dress with short matching jacket featuring three-quarter sleeves was a perfect foil for Hon. Buda's Brown's fair hair. Her matching velvet hat fitted close to the head and was styled with petal bows as trim.

Mrs. Camille Mather, NDP-CCF member for the Delta riding, brought a vibrant splash of color to the House with her pink mohair sheath gown and cloche of flowers toning from pink to red. Accessories were black and she wore pearls.

Fellow feminine member on the opposition side, Mrs. Lois Haggen, member for Grand Forks-Greenwood riding, chose a gown of fine black wool, styled on princess lines. Her Dior hat had a crown of turquoise pleated chiffon with large toning roses on the brim. She wore blue crystal jewelry and a Russian squirrel stole with black accessories.

Mrs. R. W. Bonner wore a pale blue wool sheath with tall cloche of blue flowers, a mink stole and toning blue crystal jewelry; Mrs. R. G. Williston, a green silk sheath and jacket with toning petalled hat, matching jewelry, Canadian squirrel jacket and black accessories; Mrs. Leslie R. Peterson wore a white pagoda shaped hat with a dramatic swathe of black feathers to complement her French model black suit. She added pearl necklet and earrings and a mink stole.

HIGH-RISE HATS

A slim beige jersey dress and high-rising beige cloche with a side tilt accented with a swirl of tulle was choice of Mrs. Waldo Skillings. Her accessories were black and her jewelry in deep green tones. Mrs. H. J. Bruch chose a brocade suit in sand and silver tones with matching petal hat and silver jewelry.

Mrs. D. O. Forrest wore a black Blin and Blin suit, tall white hat of pleated chiffon with black velvet trim and a mink stole. With this she wore black accessories and pearls.

Mrs. Allan Leith was smart in a fine black wool dressmaker suit complemented with a black straw turban de- [illegible] in white, cream, beige and brown on the crown. Her accessories were black and she wore a mink stole.

Mrs. A. E. Walters' dressmaker suit was a perfect foil for the blush pink spring straw hat she wore. It was styled with tiny brim, crown covered with black flowers and a dainty black veil. Pearls, mink stole and black accessories completed this ensemble.

Mrs. Alan Macfarlane was attractive in a black silk suit with white maribou hat and mink jacket.

Miss Eleanor Morley, provincial president of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of British Columbia, was smart in a dark green silk suit with spring straw hat in new leaf green wreathed in flowers toning from yellows to greens.

A suit in green flecked with black was worn by Mrs. I. C. Dinning, the black note picked up again in a smart high-rising black straw hat with tiny brim. The crown was ringed with black tulle with a black French silk rose tucked in at one side. Black accessoreis and mink jacket completed this ultra-smart ensemble.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Be Sweet and Gentle—at First!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: How can you get a 220-pound 28-year-old man out of bed in the morning? He is harder to get up than the children. By the time he is ready for breakfast it is cold, and everyone else has eaten and gone. He has to punch a time clock so it is important that he get to work promptly. This is upsetting me, and I would appreciate some tips from you or your readers who have had the same problem. Thank you.

ADELLE

DEAR ADELLE: Do you yell, "HEY—GET UP!"? Or do you gently brush his be-whiskered cheek with an affectionate kiss? Try waking him with a little tenderness. Bring a steaming cup of coffee to his bedside. If this doesn't work, let the big lug get to work late a time or two. Some people have to learn everything the hard way.

DEAR ABBY: Why should the bride's family pay for everything? I think it is time for a new book on the subject. My daughter is getting married and it is going to cost me a fortune. Our family is small, and we don't have many friends. The boy's family is large and they are including every shirttail relative they ever thought of, and neighbors and friends enough to fill the downtown auditorium, and we are getting stuck for everything. I would like to hear what your readers have to say about this.

FATHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR FATHER: Traditionally, it is the bride's family who puts on the wedding. If your finances are limited, restrict the number of guests the groom's family may invite.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior in high school. We recently moved to a city many miles from my home town. Every afternoon after school I take my 10-month-old baby sister for a walk. Some of the kids at school have told me that there is a rumor going around school that my little sister is really MY child. They said they heard I got in trouble and my parents were raising the child as their own. I have cried myself to sleep every night since I heard this terrible lie. How can I let people know the truth?

LIED ABOUT

DEAR LIED ABOUT: Don't waste your time and energy fighting groundless rumors. Ignore the lies and the liars.

Children will love them, grown-ups will ask for the recipe for these easy made roll-ups. Try them once, you'll repeat the order.

Lemon-Glaze Roll-Ups

There's nothing like the warm, yeasty aroma of fresh baked rolls to bring people on the trot . . . especially when the rolls are these roll-ups thick with fruited jam-like filling and frosted with lemon glaze.

Directions tell how to make these rolls from yeasty beginning to wine-fruity end . . . and the directions are simple and easy to follow. However, if you wish, instead of making the yeast bread yourself, use a hot roll mix. The prune-nut filling takes kindly to either.

ROLL-UPS WITH PRUNE-NUT FILLING

The filling: 1½ cups chopped, pitted plumped prunes, ¼ cup sugar, ½ cup chopped walnuts, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind.

The rolls: 1 package dry yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm water, ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, ¼ cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 2¼-2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour.

Combine prunes, ¼ cup sugar, walnuts, cinnamon, nutmeg, ⅛ teaspoon salt and lemon rind.

Soften yeast in lukewarm water for 5 minutes. Cream together butter and ¼ cup sugar; add egg. Beat until creamy. Add milk, ½ teaspoon salt, yeast and enough flour to make a soft, firm dough. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Knead until dough is smooth and elastic. Roll out on lightly floured board 18"x 13". Spread with prune mixture. Roll up jelly-roll fashion beginning with long side. Cut in 12 to 15 slices. Place cut side down on baking sheet about 2" apart. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, 20-25 minutes. Spread a little glaze on each roll. Serve hot or cold. Makes 12-15 rolls.

LEMON GLAZE

Add enough lemon juice to 1 cup confectioner's sugar to make a glaze of spreading consistency.

Grant presided; table topic, "Then and Now," was conducted by Mrs. L. Wiart.

Social Secretaries Now Take Back Seat: Wives Do Steering

WINNIPEG, Man. (CP) — The emancipation of women has been the cause of a new trend concerning public affairs, says the wife of Canada's minister of northern affairs and national resources.

Mrs. Walter Dinsdale says she thinks younger men are taking public office because it now is possible for their wives to stand at their sides and help.

Her husband agrees. He told a Manitoba Progressive Conservative Association meeting recently that the social side of politics now is so heavy that "You can have social secretaries and the like, but they don't do as good a job as your wife."

Emancipation won't even allow the wives with younger children to stay home, says Mrs. Dinsdale. However, she describes herself as a full-time mother and homemaker for her husband and four children. She has part-time help.

"I don't go on trips or to conventions unless there is a satisfactory arrangement at home," the minister's wife said in an interview.

The family does a lot of travelling together, mostly from its "shelter" in Ottawa to home in Brandon, Man. Since Mr. Dinsdale's appointment, travel has increased. For example, 1961 New Year's was spent in Yukon Territory and Easter in the Northwest Territories.

Ganges Bride Wears White Taffeta Gown

A floor-length white taffeta gown, featuring a sweetheart neckline, three-quarter sleeves and soft pleats in the skirt, was worn by Miss Lynne Young for her marriage to Erik Ostensoe in St. George's Anglican Church, Ganges, Salt Spring Island.

Chapel veil of double tulle was held with a crown of sequins and pearls. White carnations were in the bouquet and the bride's jewelry was a gold bracelet, gift of the groom, and a gold pendant cross.

Archdeacon G. H. Holmes officiated. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Young of Ganges and Mr. and Mrs. M. Ostensoe of Lillooet, B.C. Mr. Young gave his daughter in marriage.

Mauve chrysanthemums were at the altar in the church and also marked guest pews. Organist was Mrs. V. C. Best.

Two young bridesmaids, 11-year-old Esme Ostensoe and nine-year-old Elaine Young, sisters of the wedding principals, wore identical gowns of mauve sheer with lace bodices and crinolined skirts. Their halo bandeaux were mauve tulle and they carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations.

Best man was Douglas Irving and the ushers John Chalk and Gordon Gutrath, both of Vancouver.

Reception was held in the parish hall, where a three-tier cake, topped with wedding bells and lily of the valley and flanked by mauve candles and chrysanthemums in silver holders, centred the bride's table. Cake was made by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. Hilda Hobday.

For travelling on honeymoon to California, the bride wore a two-piece willow green imported wool suit with brown accessories and corsage of yellow carnations. The couple will make their home in Vancouver.

ALWAYS CUT LENGTHWISE GRAIN

To the many readers who ask about cutting instructions on the lengthwise or crosswise grain of the fabric:

Always cut your garments on the lengthwise grain of the fabric. They will hang so much better. This means that any point of the line printed on your pattern and marked "lengthwise grain," is to be the same distance from the selvage edge of your fabric.

The only exception to this rule would be where you are using a striped or a plaid fabric, and wish to cut part of your garment on the opposite grain for decorative purposes. Naturally, with many of today's patterns that are cut on the bias grain, you would have to follow specific cutting instructions given with the individual pattern.

IT'S A HARD AND FAST RULE in my house to use GILLETT'S DRAIN CLEANER once a week, every week . . . for I know how dangerous it is to neglect those germs that lurk in every drain. And I know, too, from experience, that liquid disinfectants can't budge the greasy muck these germs breed in. It takes the special churning, boiling action of Gillett's Drain Cleaner to completely scour out every trace of this germ-breeding mess. If you wish to enjoy the satisfaction of fast-running, clean and sanitary drains, just put 2 tablespoons of Gillett's Drain Cleaner in every drain, every week!

I NEVER REALIZED how frightening asthma could be until a friend's young son gasped for breath and wheezed with an attack one day. But his mother wasn't disturbed. She simply gave him a RAZ-MAH Greys Junior Capsule and in a few minutes the boy was fine. The mother herself has suffered from asthma and chronic bronchitis since childhood, and has been relying on RAZ-MAH Capsules for relief; they leave no unpleasant after-effects. Seeing is believing, and I saw how wonderfully effective RAZ-MAH Capsules are. That's why I heartily recommend RAZ-MAH to any of you suffering from bronchial asthma.

MY SISTER-IN-LAW HAS REALLY SOLD ME on the many advantages of CALGON, the wonder water conditioner. For instance, Calgon prevents Hangover Dirt . . . the film of soil, minerals, soap or detergent that sticks to your clothes. It's like the ring you get in the bathtub. Hangover Dirt makes your clothes stiff and scratchy — colors drab and dingy. But Calgon, the Water Doctor, CURES Hangover Dirt — prevents and removes it naturally without bleach. Calgon conditions water so you need less soap — get clothes softer, more absorbent and really clean. For brighter, cleaner clothes — launder with Calgon.

I'VE DISCOVERED HOW TO TAKE THE WOE OUT OF WASHDAY with wonderful SUNLIGHT SOAP. No hard-on-you, hard-on-fabrics scrubbing — and Sunlight makes all the difference between really clean and just 'clean-enough'. For instance, it's perfect for extra soiled collars and cuffs — they come beautifully clean when rubbed with Sunlight before dunking in the washing machine. Sunlight is mild and gentle to hands and fabrics, yet does a good hard-working job. That's because it's all soap — guaranteed pure and unadulterated, yet costs less than any other bar soap or cleaner. Try Sunlight . . . I know you'll agree that 'it's the one soap with a thousand uses'.

'DEGREES GRANTED TOO SOON'

Social Workers Untrained

OTTAWA (CP) — Many Canadian social workers are "half-professionals" who lack adequate university training, a University of Ottawa official said today.

Rev. Swithun Bowers, director of the School of Social Welfare, charged in the school calendar published today that some universities are "crippling" the development of the profession by granting social work degrees after a single year of post-graduate study.

He did not name the universities. University calendars showed that the Universities of Toronto, British Columbia and Manitoba grant the bachelor of social work degree for one year of specialized study.

The University of Ottawa and several other Canadian universities offer the same degree for two years of study.

Two years, Father Bower said, should be a minimum requirement for professional social workers.

Mac to Address U.S. Publishers

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is going to the United States in April to address the American Newspaper Publishers Association annual meeting in New York, it was announced Wednesday. He will address the ANPA dinner on April 26.

A government announcement said Macmillan would be visiting Washington and expected to meet with President Kennedy during his stay. No formal arrangements for this meeting have yet been made, it was stated.

BIDS FOR ROLE—Peter Fonda, youngest of the famous acting family, appeared hottest prospect today for role of John F Kennedy in film version of president's war exploits. Fonda, 22, son of Henry, spent all day Wednesday testing for starring part in "PT 109," the story of how Kennedy and 10 others survived the sinking of their craft after it was rammed by a Japanese destroyer in 1943. If you don't want to leave the theatre looking like a bundle of Monday's wash go well-equipped to handle the tears that are bound to fall with the intensity of monsoons. I would suggest the minimum to be in the neighborhood of a quire of hankies, a ream each of Kleenex and Scottkins.

Even the corn that is high as an elephant's eye can't hide the handsomeness of either the actors involved or the sets that are so vast, colorful and decorative that it wouldn't seem unlikely that the Taj Mahal would be considered a slum clearance project in the comparison.

As usual, Susan Hayward turns in a splendid performance considering what she must make herself believe as the small-town-girl-turned-famous-dress-designer who becomes wealthy John Gavin's "other wife." Nor is she let down by Gavin himself who has to put up with his alcoholic wife—played well by Vera Miles—as he tries to shield his two small children from the fact that life isn't all private schools, nannies and expensive toys.

But oh those lines and situations as dreamed up by Miss Hurst and screen scripters Eleanore Griffin and William Ludwig! They would produce tears alike from the Sphinx or old Scrooge himself. Producer Ross Hunter and director David Miller haven't missed a single duct.

Then there is the final fade-out scene when the entire theatre seems to shake as the concerted sobs burst out from struggling patrons like the mighty Mississippi over-flowing its banks in spring.

It is one of those rare films where the usherettes rush out first to beat the female customers to the powder rooms.

Graham Defies Edict, to Preach In Colombia

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he will go through with his plans to preach in Barranquilla, Colombia, this weekend although the mayor there has denied him use of the municipal stadium. The meetings Saturday and Sunday will be held at the Presbyterian mission.

Colombia is a predominantly Roman Catholic country.

The mayor of Barranquilla withdrew permission for Graham to speak in the stadium after the local Roman Catholic hierarchy protested that Protestant preaching outside private church property was illegal in Colombia.

Arms Shipment Ban

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain has clamped a ban on arms shipments to Indonesia until the dispute between The Netherlands and Indonesia over Dutch-held West New Guinea is "clarified."

Magazine Banned

PARIS (AP) — The French government has banned circulation in France and Algeria of copies of the Jan. 26 issue of Time magazine bearing a cover photograph of Secret Army leader Gen. Raoul Salan. A foreign ministry official said there was no objection to the story that went with the cover. The ministry of information said later it would permit circulation of the magazine without the Salan cover and that the magazine planned to remove the picture from the 15,000 copies for distribution in France.

Author Weds

EDINBURGH (AP) — Sir Compton MacKenzie, 79-year-old Scottish novelist, quietly married his secretary, Chriss MacSween, Tuesday night, three months earlier than the announced date. The new Lady MacKenzie is 58 and had been his secretary for 33 years.

World Youth Festival To Meet in Helsinki

Helsinki will be the location of the eighth World Youth Festival to be held from July 27 to Aug. 5.

The world festivals have been organized every two years in European capitals for the purpose of contributing to world peace through "international youth understanding," according to the Canadian Youth Festival committee.

During the festival in the Finnish capital, conferences will be organized on the base of hobbies or occupations. There will be an emphasis on sport as well.

The festival program arose out of the formation of the World Federation of Democratic Youth in London in November, 1945. Since then, the federation has worked in co-operation with other youth and student organizations to hold festivals every two years.

TURNING TO WEST

Esa Kuusisto, who attended one of these in Moscow in 1953, said that this co-operation decreased as east and west drew further apart.

"But we are trying to overcome this by holding the festivals more in western capitals," he said.

The last festival was held in Vienna, a western capital, and Mr. Kuusisto emphasized that Helsinki was an ideal meeting place for the youth of east and west as it is the capital of a neutral country.

Previous festivals, attended by an average 60 to 100 Canadians, have been held in Prague, Bucharest, Berlin, Moscow and Warsaw.

Travel to the festival is on the Polish liner Batory, and post-festival visit to other countries may be arranged. The two-month trip will cost $850.

Local enquiries may be addressed to Mr. Kuusisto at 3147 Irma Street.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

In the Blackwood convention the accepted practice is to double an overcall of a Blackwood four no-trump for business, to pass without an ace, or with an ace or two if the overcall has crowded you past your five-level stopping place and you don't expect to make the slam.

Opening lead—♣ A

Thus, West's five-spade bid gave North a tough problem. His partner had jumped to four no-trump after a single raise. Did his partner need one ace or two? North finally decided that his trumps were good and his queen of clubs important so North bid five no-trump to show his one ace.

South had no choice, but to bid six diamonds and West passed contentedly. He had stuck in his five-spade bid in order to jam the North-South communications and he hoped that he had succeeded.

Unfortunately for West, there is no substitute for luck in a bridge game.

West led the ace of clubs against the six-diamond contract and East had to play the nine.

Then West went into a huddle. That nine looked mighty large. Was it a come-on? West finally decided it was and out came a second club. South won, drew trumps, discarded dummy's spades on his long club and got away with his bad contract.

T.V. with Lee

Dina Merrill Stars in Kildare Drama, 'Oh, My Daughter,' at 8.30

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

SPACE SHOT—CBC wired me Thursday: "If U.S. 'Man in Orbit' shot goes as scheduled on January 27 (Saturday), CBC will have 'live' coverage of the event at 4 a.m. (local time), on both radio and TV."

This, of course, is scheduled to be carried by all U.S. channels as well—when the orbiting of Lt.-Col. John H. Glenn, Jr., finally takes place.

* * *

SHORT TAKES—Kate Smith's expression was something to behold on the Ed Sullivan show last Sunday night. The spontaneous applause when she finished singing was deafening. . .

And how Canada's Robert Goulet has improved—so much authority now following his international TV appearances for Sullivan and his big break as Lancelot in the Lerner-Loewe musical "Camelot." According to Judith Krantz's excellent article in the Jan. 27 edition of Maclean's Magazine Goulet now earns about $100,000 a year (his minimum for each TV job is $6,500) and yet can't afford a new Jaguar two-seater sports car, there is so much off for taxes, agent's fees, separate maintenance for his wife and daughter, the high-but-necessary cost of living and so on. . .

* * *

SHAME ON THE CBC!—Sat up Sunday night for the promised expose of the girlie shows as purveyed by London's not-so-private clubs situated in Soho's naughty mile. But what happened? As soon as the gals came within camera range and started in to peel some guy's head was always in the way—the same square in every instant. Personally I think he was pasted in as a form of uncensorable censorship. Poor show! . . .

I thought CBC Parade's Liberty Magazine TV awards were carried out in a most interesting manner, last Sunday night. At least we had a first rate opportunity to see who, exactly, was our own. Certainly it was the best job that Liberty and the CBC have done so far. Individual star? In my opinion newscaster Earl Cameron who showed there was a lot of heart and feeling for mirth beneath that granite exterior. . . .

Also enjoyed the trapeze artists on NBC-TV's Du Pont Show of the Week's excellent circus documentary last Sunday; ABC-TV's Wide World of Sports treatment of the water skiing championship at Acapulco and the world barrel jumping championships, not forgetting Vancouver's 7 o'Clock Show's initial program of three, Tuesday night, entitled "The Glory That Was Greece," with Sir Compton MacKenzie doing an exemplary job as the visitor-commentator.

Channels 6, 2: James Broderick, Stanley Kristien star in Defenders' hour-long drama, "Storm at Birch Glen." A reform school inmate is found beaten to death and a supervisor is charged with murder.

9.30

Channel 8: Louise O'Brien and Gloria Lambert help Mitch Miller and his gang to sing-a-long. This can be seen also at 10 on Channel 5.

10.00

Channel 2: Ben Casey's hospital drama stars Jack [illegible] Charlie." Dr. Charles Kozelka seems to have rather a strange practice taken up almost entirely with citizens of skid row.

WHAT MAKES A HOUSE A HOME?

The answer is surely, it is pleasant to live in! Well this home I'm about to describe is a pleasure to be in for many reasons; starting from the spacious ground level entrance hall to the six-foot-wide stairs leading to the large view living room with a fireplace dividing off the dining room. Three large bedrooms, each capable of holding double beds, a completed den and playroom in the basement. Outside the garden has been cleverly planned to give a wonderful effect with a minimum of effort, it is all shrubs, and fenced in such a fashion to give complete privacy.

This home and landscaping planned by a professional about five years ago, is located in Gordon Head, with a sea view, and is priced to sell at $18,850. Why to sell? Be[illegible] Please contact Chris Pike at EV 2-4255 or GR 7-[illegible] Res.) to see a house that is a home and a pleasure to show to clients.

NEW FOUR-BEDROOM
EXCEPTIONAL VIEW

The most obvious feature of this home is the view—180 degrees overlooking beautiful Cordova Bay eastward across the low-lying Gulf Islands to the lofty white-capped Cascades and regal Mount Baker.

The basic landscaping is well established on the extra-large lot with a cleverly designed circular driveway that eliminates the "wait till I move my car" problem when guests are departing. There is a big carport . . . and . . . a drive-in garage.

Inside, a combination of skilful design, tasteful decorating and numerous modern extras make a home that is truly livable . . . a panelled living room with a wall-length view window and raised-hearth fireplace, a good-sized dining room, a kitchen, modern as tomorrow, two bedrooms and a den that is big enough to be a third bedroom, a bathroom with five pieces, built-in vanity and two inset hand basins.

The basement or ground level has a family room with fireplace, a fourth bedroom, and a bathroom, all of which are rough-finished and waiting for you to finish in your own choice of wall cover and fixtures . . . and . . . plenty of space left for utilities, a workshop, a big automatic oil hot-air heating unit, an encased electric hot water heater and storage room.

It is a soundly built, expertly finished home that the owner doesn't want to sell, but he has to leave Victoria . . . so the price is right at and it can be viewed by appointment only. Call S. W. Bridges at EV 5-3435 or GR 9-1870.

Just Another 'Toy' Pistol To Tot, Storekeeper Dead

EL PASO, Tex., (UPI)—There was mutual admiration between Mrs. Ruth Wicker and four-year-old Bobby Preusser.

She thought he was cute dressed up in his cowboy garb. He thought her store had the best bubble gum in town.

Mrs. Wicker always gave Bobby gum when he came in to the store. She even let him go behind the counter and get it himself.

Bobby, in a cowboy hat, boots and blue jeans, skipped in at his mother's side Wednesday. Mrs. Wicker, as usual, gave him permission to get a piece of gum while his mother shopped. Bobby dashed behind the counter but stopped short.

Something caught his eye he had not seen before. It was an old revolver on a shelf.

Bobby likes toy-pistols. He has a box full of them at home. The pistol on the shelf did not look any different.

He picked it up, pointed it and pulled the trigger. The pistol fired. The bullet hit Mrs. Wicker in the stomach.

"He shot me! Call an ambulance," she cried.

But she was dead on arrival at a hospital 20 minutes later.

Bobby's mother, Mrs. R. W. Preusser, said he had never seen a real gun in his life.

HOTEL STRIKE OUTCOME

Celebrities 'Picket' Dinner

TORONTO (CP)—Sponsors of Toronto's annual Sports Celebrities Dinner are looking for a new master of ceremonies. If the present trend continues, they may have to hunt for more celebrities.

Comedians Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster, who were to have been masters of ceremonies, said Wednesday night they will not cross picket lines at the strikebound Royal York Hotel, site of the Feb. 1 dinner.

A. R. Johnstone, international vice-president of the striking Hotel and Club Employees Union (CLC), then listed three celebrities he said have decided against attending—Ralph Houk, manager of baseball's New York Yankees, Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscombe of the National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers, and Wilma Rudolph Ward, United States track star.

Johnstone said the union's head office has been working to persuade sports figures to boycott the dinner, held in support of crippled children's work.

"A charity dinner is no different from any other kind of dinner," he said. "They knew last May that the strike was on. It's a case of charity giving aid to the Royal York Hotel."

CAMPBELL WILL ATTEND

Dinner chairman Gordon Campbell declared: "There's going to be a dinner if I'm the only one there."

Campbell said the Royal York was chosen as site of the dinner last January, three months before the strike began.

He said that after the strike was under way an executive meeting decided the Royal York was the only hotel large enough to accommodate the crowd needed to produce $24,000 promised for a crippled children's centre near Kitchener, Ont.

The $25-a-plate dinner is sponsored annually by the Ontario Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association. In the last 10 years $208,000 has been raised for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

Wayne and Shuster earlier accepted their invitation, on condition they could withdraw unless the strike had been settled.

BLASTS UNION LEADER

Meanwhile, Jim Vipond, sports editor of The Globe and Mail, says the cause of crippled children in Ontario is being "deliberately embarrassed" by Onofrio Zambri, secretary-manager of the Hotel and Club Employees' Local 299.

Vipond writes:

"In a misguided attempt to focus attention on the unfortunate and unhappy strike at the Royal York Hotel, Mr. Zambri announced Tuesday evening that Carmen Basilio, former middleweight boxing champion, will not be a head-table guest at the Feb. 1 dinner.

"This despite the fact that Mr. Basilio, as of late Wednesday had not informed the dinner organizers that he had changed his mind.

First prospective head-table guest to announce he would not attend was Rev. John Crowley of Laurentian University in Sudbury, Ont. The Roman Catholic priest was to have said grace.

Several others invited to the dinner either indicated they would attend or said they hadn't reached a decision.

$2.1 Million Claim Against Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—A statement of claim, asking damages totalling $2,100,000 from the Toronto Stock Exchange and two of its officers, was filed in Osgoode Hall this week on behalf of Wilfred M. Posluns.

Mr. Posluns is a former shareholder and director of the stockbroking firm of R. A. Daley and Company Ltd.

On Feb. 28, the exchange's board withdrew approval of Mr. Posluns as a director, shareholder and employee of the company and fined the company $5,000.

COLLEGE 'SIGN FUND'

Washtub of Pennies Given to Solarium

By LESLIE MILLIN
Times College Correspondent

Victoria's first centennial project was completed Tuesday with the presentation of thousands of pennies collected by Victoria College students to the Queen Alexandra Solarium for Crippled Children.

It was not an official ceremony.

The money had been collected to pay for the rehanging of a centennial sign removed from the front of City Hall on Wednesday and found atop the college's Ewing Building on Friday.

Students were informed that the college would be charged $50 in installation costs, and set about collecting the sum in pennies Monday. But when no bill had materialized by Tuesday they decided to present the 3,500-odd pennies to the city centennial committee.

Unable to locate the mayor or any person in authority when they entered the City Hall on Tuesday afternoon with a washtub of pennies, the seven-man delegation headed eventually for the office of the assessor and collector to hand over the cash.

John Hogg, a fourth-year student, read a proclamation to an interested crowd of taxpayers explaining the college feeling that the coffers of the city should be "restored to their former plenitude," and the coppers were spilled out onto the counter.

Nobody stepped forward to collect it, and the disgruntled students swept the money back into the washtub and announced their intention of taking it to the solarium.

In presenting it to the solarium officials, the students requested that the gift be considered as being "from the centennial committee, collected on their behalf by the students of Victoria College."

One Power Body Set for B.C.

WORKMEN shielded themselves with sheets of aluminum this week as they battled oil well fire near Fort St. John, B.C., while awaiting arrival of Texas trouble-shooter Red Adair. Fire was put out by Adair today.

WALKS INTO FLAMES

Tough Texan Snuffs Wild Oil Well Fire

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—A wild oil well fire which has blazed almost a week in the northern bushland was snuffed out today by Red Adair, recognized as the world's foremost oil well fireman.

Adair, 46, flown to the site of the blazing Blueberry well from Algiers by the Sun Oil Company, walked into the flames clad in an asbestos suit.

He chained down the "Christmas tree" pipe apparatus at the wellhead which had been loose and leaking.

This cut off most of the wellhead flames. The big Texan firefighter then used soda and mud to pack around the base of the wellhead apparatus to snuff out the fire.

Then he simply turned a valve which stopped the flow of oil and gas from below and the flames died away at Blueberry 29 where the fire sprang up Friday.

It had been planned to use a dynamite blast to snuff out the flames if this method had failed.

One awe-struck roughneck who witnessed the performance said: "If Adair is sent to Hell he won't burn."

It was the second asbestos-suit walk into the flames in as many days for the barrel-chested Texan. He took a first look at the blaze belching from the well among a maze of wellhead pipes Wednesday.

Rifle Used In Bid to Blow Valve

Adair walked into the blaze after he and Sid White of Jasper, Alta., another top fire fighter, were only partially successful in attempts to redirect the flames by means of a rifle.

Adair, a barrel-chested Texan, got a close look at the heart of the trouble at the Sun Oil Company well — a heat-weakened valve pipe where 600 barrels of leaking oil a day are being devoured by flames.

The fire, which started Friday, was burning steadily, sending gigantic fireballs up every three minutes.

Adair and White first tried to shoot off the main valve with a high-powered rifle.

They crouched behind an aluminum shield taking turns pumping bullets at the valve, less than half the size of a man's fist. They wanted to blow off the valve, on the side of the main stem, so the flames would shoot out sideways. They failed to shoot off the valve but managed to open a hole in the pipe lower down.

Adair then walked into the flames carrying a six-foot shield of corrugated aluminum in one hand to ward off the flames. Stooping to the ground to avoid the fire balls, he used a 30-foot-long pipe to turn off the valve as far as it would go. He attached a cable to a feeder pipe which was then pulled away by a bulldozer.

M. E. Austin, Sun field supervisor, said the company has spent about $100,000 fighting the fire.

"I don't know what Adair is going to charge us, but he's worth it."

SPACE TRIP STILL SET SATURDAY

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The fine weather over Cape Canaveral is expected to end within a few days but it should hold good through Saturday to enable astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. to make his orbit around earth that day, it was announced today.

Glenn was ready to go and the countdown was proceeding toward the Saturday target date. The forecast of bad weather ahead made America's space scientists even more eager to get him off.

RUSK AT OAS

Searing Attack On Castro

(Times News Service)

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay—The United States in a searing indictment of Castro communism appealed to the other American states today for a four-pronged counter-attack to save the hemisphere from the ravages of global Red assault.

State Secretary Dean Rusk told the inter-American foreign ministers' conference considering the threat of Cuba's communism that the Americas need a shield to protect democratic processes if the Alliance for Progress program is to succeed in its attack on the hemisphere's economic ills.

Rusk called on the 19 American states to (1) declare Castro communism incompatible with the inter-American system, (2) exclude the Havana government from participation in the Organization of American States OAS, (3) interrupt the "limited but significant flow of trade between Cuba and the rest of the hemisphere," and (4) set in motion individual and communal acts of defence "against the various forms of political and indirect aggression mounted against the hemisphere."

OPPOSED BY BRAZIL

Rusk's speech came at a critical moment in the conference as Brazil and several other countries pushed a drive to soften hemispheric retaliation against Cuban communism.

The Brazilian campaign indicated there was little hope of unanimous decisive action by the 20 American states sitting in judgment on the Havana government.

Rusk labelled Castro and the Cuban Communists "smirking sycophants" of Moscow and declared:

"What we cannot accept and will never accept is the use of Cuba as a means through which extra-continental powers seek to break up the inter-American system, to overthrow governments of other countries and to destroy the autonomous democratic revolution of the hemisphere.

"The Castro regime has extended the global battle to Latin America. It has supplied Communism with a bridgehead in the Americas, and it has thereby brought the entire hemisphere into the front line of the struggle between Communism and democracy. It has turned itself into an arsenal for arms and ammunition from the Communist world."

'TRADE PARTNERSHIP'

JFK Outlines Tariff Program

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Kennedy today unveiled his demands on Congress for vast tariff-bargaining power, describing them as stepping stones to "an open trade partnership" between North America and western Europe to frustrate Communist dreams of shattering the West through trade wars.

"It is time now to write a new chapter in the evolution of the Atlantic community," Kennedy said in a 5,000-word trade message requesting power to eliminate U.S. tariffs on a broad range of industrial goods and to reduce other rates by half during a period of five years or more.

Reductions would be reciprocal. Negotiations would be directed mainly at the Common Market but bargains made would be extended to all the free world. However, where big traders, such as Canada, obtained major benefits, the U.S. would expect "compensating concessions" in return, Kennedy said.

"Nuisance" tariffs—five per cent or less — would be withdrawn. This would be of particular help to Canadian exporters of aluminum, copper and nickel.

But officials said the U.S. would reserve the right to refuse to negotiate on such highly-sensitive products as oil, lead, zinc and certain agricultural products strongly protected by import quotas and other curbs. They said this reservation would be used sparingly.

Canada gets into the U.S. oil market without quotas. Other suppliers are restricted.

WOULD AID INDUSTRIES

Financial aid would be given to U.S. workers and industries He listed payments for workers who lose jobs and tax benefits for industries.

In negotiations with the Common Market—which Kennedy expects Britain will enter—the U.S. would seek complete elimination of duties on those categories of goods in which the U.S. and the Common Market combined supply at least 80 per cent of world trade. Officials said these would include automobiles, trucks, aircraft, heavy industrial machinery, electrical equipment and some consumer goods.

U.S. exports of these goods to the Common Market and Britain currently average about $2,000,000,000 a year. Total U.S. exports are about $20,000,000,000 annually. The Common Market is the biggest U.S. customer. Canada is second.

Kennedy said his administration would be negotiating not only for the U.S. but would be seeking to reduce Common Market walls for Canada, Japan and other trading partners.

TWO FERRY CONTRACTS AWARDED

Contracts for two new B.C. government ferries have been awarded, according to today's Speech from the Throne, although shipyard officials said they had not been notified.

The Throne Speech said the contracts, for ferries to serve the Departure Bay-Horseshoe Bay route formerly operated by the Black-Ball line, "have already been awarded."

It was earlier virtually assured that the contracts, worth $7,000,000, would both go to Victoria Machinery Depot, lowest bidder.

However, Harold Husband, president of the company, said he had not yet been notified of the contract decision.

NATO Aid to Portugal Under Fire by India

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—India said today NATO's support is enabling Portugal to maintain colonial control over Angola and other African territories.

Indian Ambassador C. S. Jha told the 16th United Nations General Assembly colonialism in its "most virulent" form is being practised by Portugal in Angola and "it has got to go."

Jha said that of the 15 NATO allies, only Norway has announced it will refuse arms to Portugal. Jha maintained that all the evidence indicates Portugal used NATO arms to subdue uprisings in its big West African territories.

He quoted various sources to support his statement that wholesale slaughter had been inflicted on the Angolans by Portuguese troops.

India, which pushed Portugal out of Goa and two other small Portugal territories on the Indian sub-continent last month, believed that what is happening in Angola is part of a world-wide collapse of colonialism and it cannot be stopped, Jha said.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Construction engineers clasped hands 354 feet above the icy Niagara River in a brief ceremony marking the completion of understructure work on a $16,000,000 bridge Wednesday.

'MOMENT OF WEAKNESS'

Teacher Taped Child's Mouth

TORONTO (CP)—A teacher who taped a seven-year-old pupil's mouth shut said the girl was a "constant chatterer" and that she resorted to the tape in a "moment of weakness."

The child's mother kept her daughter and two other children home from school today and said she would continue to do so until she receives an apology and assurance that the incident will not be repeated.

The girl has been under psychiatric treatment and is awaiting admittance to a hospital for mentally-disturbed children.

Teacher Marilyn Campbell said although it was no fault of the girl's, she constantly disrupted classroom activities.

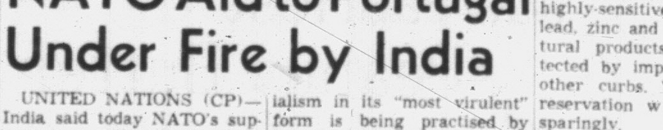
"She feels she just has to talk all the time," Miss Campbell said. The teacher said she wasn't in a very receptive mood Tuesday when the incident happened.

"I certainly regret it now."

A school trustee said he will ask for an investigation.

"I'm shocked to hear that any teacher on the Toronto board of education would resort to such methods," the trustee said.

Principal Sinclair Robertson said he wasn't planning any disciplinary action against Miss Campbell.



Whut Mister Rusk wants is t' make them Cuban heels toe th' line.

Rate Cut To Be 'Very Substantial'

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Government plans for a single agency to control electric power in B.C. were disclosed today in the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of the provincial legislature.

It will be called the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority and will be responsible for the generation and distribution of all public power in the province.

The Throne Speech did not say if this means the complete amalgamation of B.C. Electric and the B.C. Power Commission.

But presumably this will happen; or at least the two Crown agencies will be administered as "wings" of the new overall authority.

Premier Bennett said legislation setting up the authority will be introduced after his budget speech Feb. 9.

Power dominated the speech, read this afternoon at the official opening ceremony of the session by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

It also disclosed plans for even bigger reductions in electric light bills than expected. The rate cuts, throughout the province, will be "very substantial" and will come in April.

Also in the field of power, the Throne Speech predicted a construction start on the Columbia River project early this year, and assumed it is a foregone conclusion that the federal government will give in to Premier Bennett and allow sale of power benefits to the U.S.

Bigger Education Grants

There will also be big developments in the field of education. The speech predicts bigger grants to universities and school districts, expansion of vocational training, creation of a dental faculty at the University of B.C., and expansion of medical facilities.

Other Throne Speech highlights include:

- A new department of water resources;
- Promise that a royal commission into workmen's compensation will be set up;
- Unspecified legislation on wages paid in the province, believed to be an increase in the Minimum Wage Act;
- "Substantial" increases in grants to Victoria College and the University of B.C., as well as to local school districts;
- New laws affecting administration of municipalities, implementing recommendations of the Chant Royal Commission on Education, revising the organization of magistrate's courts, planning celebration of Canada's centenary in 1967;
- Bigger spending on tourist promotion, housing for elderly citizens, farm assistance;
- Expansion of hospitals, parks, and improvements to Oakalla prison farm;
- Bigger revenues from mining, pipelines and the PGE railway.

Speculation on Power Head

The Throne Speech promised plenty of debate this session on power.

The most far-reaching move will be the creation of the new overall power authority, which has already touched off speculation as to who will head it —Dr. H. L. Keenleyside of B.C. Hydro or Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of B.C. Electric.

There was no mention in the speech of the promised changeover in Greater Victoria, where B.C. Hydro was to take over all B.C. Electric operations in April.

This plan may now have been discarded in favor of the province-wide takeover of public power by the new agency.

The Throne Speech said the authority would "facilitate" the promised rate reductions and also "improve even more the administrative efficiency of the Crown agencies involved" —B.C. Hydro and B.C. Electric.

"This authority will be assigned responsibility for the generation and distribution of all public power within the province for construction of a provincial power grid, and for the consignment of power to a national grid when required," said the speech.

Creation of the new department of water resources is in recognition of the importance of the field and the "high professional status" of the present water rights branch, said the speech.

The department will still be under the jurisdiction of the present lands and forests department, of which Ray Williston is minister, but it will be called the department of lands, forests and water resources.

This will mean appointment of a new deputy minister, probably present water rights comptroller A. F. Paget.

In the field of education "substantial increases" in grants to the universities and school districts were promised, together with new vocational training facilities at Nanaimo, Kelowna, Prince George, Nelson and Vancouver.

Money will be allotted in the budget for the new dental faculty at UBC.

Natural Gas Generator Rated Major Development

BY GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Bell

One of the most interesting developments in the energy field—and one which could be of considerable importance to British Columbia in a few years — is the natural gas fueled generator which converts heat or chemical energy into electricity.

Already in use in a few areas of the United States, gas fueled generators are arousing considerable controversy between electrical power interests, who oppose them bitterly, and the natural gas interests who see them as the ideal power source for large buildings and building complexes.

Biggest selling point of the [illegible] vides, in one package, electricity, heat and cooling from a virtually trouble-free energy source.

The new generator is being hailed in many quarters in the United States as the most revolutionary scientific breakthrough since the emergence of nuclear power and the prediction has been made in several financial papers that it will assure natural gas of a dominant place in the energy field in North America.

This, of course, is good news for British Columbia, where significant gas strikes in the northeastern and north-central areas of the province this winter give strong indications of proving up gas reserves of tremendous magnitude.

The word in B.C. mining circles is that the Sheba Copper property—owned 53 per cent by Peel Resources Ltd. and 47 per cent by Cassiar Consoli- [illegible] test strike since Craigmont, whose property it adjoins.

Although assay results from the No. 2 diamond drill hole were inconclusive due to poor core recovery resulting from the small-diameter drill used and the crumbly nature of the structure, mineralization varying from .15 to 2.3 per cent copper was found in all five-foot intervals through the 60 feet of hole.

The mineralized zone is reported to be close to 500 feet wide and there is hope that it is an extension of the Craigmont ore body.

Third hole is to go down immediately using a heavier drill which was moved in this week.

Adding to the interest in the property is a report from Peel Resources stating that H. C. Ketcheson Investments Ltd. has underwritten another 150,000 shares of Peel at 40 cents and has been granted options on four further blocks of 150,000 [illegible] cents, $1 and $1.50.

According to a Victoria source, Noranda Mines Ltd. is now believed to have bought about 250,000 shares of Western Mines Ltd.

About 150,000 shares are believed to have been acquired just a few days ago from directors who obtained a release of escrow stock, about 100,000 were bought on the open market and another 100,000 shares were purchased previously from directors.

If this report is correct it means that about half of Western's 2.1 million issued shares are closely held by Consolidated Mining and Smelting, with a 30 per cent interest, Noranda and company directors.

Standard Oil of B.C., which this week announced location of its first exploratory well northeast of Dawson City, has staked a second well in the Yukon.

The second well, however, is in the south, just across the B.C. border and about 16 miles northwest of the rumored huge Pan American Beaver River gas strike.

The well, SOBC Beavercrow No. 1, will be drilled to a depth of 11,000 feet on a 63,854-acre tract obtained from SOBC's parent company, Standard Oil of California.

Mr. Boltbee said precise plans will be submitted to the British Columbia government this summer.

RICKETY BUILDINGS DUE FOR RAZING

A special meeting of city parks committee Wednesday recommended revamping of the concession system for several parks and beaches. If accepted, the plan would result in domolition of dilapidated concession buildings at Thetis Lake Park (see picture), Eagle Park, and Hamsterley Beach. A temporary concession would be operated from a trailer at Thetis Lake Park until an earth fill proggam created a site for a new concession and dressing room building. The concession at Royal Athletic Park would be improved and leased to Victoria Soccer League from September to April and to Victoria Amateur Baseball Association from May to September. The recommendations also call for obtaining cost estimate for a concession building at Macdonald Park.

Whichever mayor gets the first message would receive a plaque (says my correspondent) and the occasion could be marked by the firing of a gun.

What about an extra gun for the beachcomber who picks up the first bottle reaching shore?

Injury Loss In Accident Argued

How much does a person lose by being injured in an auto accident?

The question was fought out in B.C. Supreme Court Wednesday afternoon and evening by counsel for two parties involved in a collision at the corner of Scott and Ryan Streets on April 7, 1960.

J. Alan Baker, QC, claimed that Mrs. Christine Laura Hartley, 2700 Asquith, had suffered loss of employment, severe injuries and nervous repercussions from the accident.

TAUGHT FULL WEEK

The Hartley's car was said to have been struck by another car driven by Richard F. Saunders, 1632 Kings Road, and owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Buxton, 1797 Cultra.

Dr. Donald Whitley, Victoria physician, said Mrs. Hartley used to teach school every day of the week, but since the accident she had only been able to teach two days a week. She was still suffering from tension and nervous strain.

"Tension and stress are fairly common today, even among people who have not been involved in accidents," said Allan McEachern, counsel for the Toronto General Insurance Company.

RECOVERING

He suggested to Dr. Whitley that Mrs. Hartley had made "considerable recovery" since the accident.

"I would say reasonable recovery," the doctor answered.

"Her physical activities are still limited to about 75 or 80 per cent of normal."

Mr. McEachern stated that Mrs. Hartley has a husband and one child and is still able to teach in school.

"Surely that is a more than normal degree of activity," he suggested.

The court sat Wednesday until 10 p.m. so that Mr. Justice David Verchere, the presiding judge, could attend the opening of the Legislature this afternoon; but more evidence was heard this morning.

U.S. Planes Still Hunt Catamaran

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter and amphibious plane continued a so-far fruitless hunt today for two men believed aboard a missing catamaran off the Washington coast.

The men, identified as Bernhardt Abel and Franz Geigle, left Victoria in November with the expressed intention of cruising to Mexico by easy stages.

They sailed from La Push, Wash., about 2 a.m. Sunday, and were last seen at noon the same day by the lighthouse keeper on Destruction Island.

A third crew member, Wolfgang Giffels, hitchhiked to Grays Harbor and set off the search when he was unable to locate his companions.

The search today extended from Cape Flattery to Grays Harbor, along the coastline, and a distance of 25 miles out to sea.

The twin-hulled catamaran is 18 feet long, driven by a small sail and outboard motor.

11-Year-Old Sounds Alarm In Robbery

Safeway Store Hit By Thieves

An 11-year-old boy sparked a city-wide search early Wednesday evening when he reported a daring raid by two youths on the Safeway Store at Fort and Foul Bay.

The boy, David Rule, of 1635 Chandler, told police he saw the youths drive away from the store in a 1950 model black car. They were heading west on Fort, he said.

City police in co-operation with Oak Bay police immediately started an extensive search for the thieves who took $280 worth of goods from the store, but couldn't trace them.

The pair used a sledgehammer to smash their way into the premises through a plate glass window. The window is in full view of passing motorists and pedestrians.

CLEAVER USED

Once inside the store they used a meat cleaver to smash a padlock hasp and got into the tobacco room where they took $245 worth of cigarettes in cartons.

The store office also was broken into, manager A. J. Romano said, and the drawers ransacked. No attempt was made to enter a nearby safe.

Before they left, the youths helped themselves to about $35 worth of sirloin steaks from a display counter.

Outside they loaded the haul into the rear of their car and it was at this time that young David came cycling by on his way home from a basketball game. He is a student at St. Patrick's School and was taking a short cut across the parking lot.

OFFERED CIGARETTES

He said the pair, aged 19 or 20, offered him some cigarettes which he refused and then asked him not to tell anybody he had seen them.

As soon as they left he dashed to a nearby house to telephone the police but the householders weren't impressed by his story and turned him away. He had more success at the second house he called on—1911 Foul Bay—and summoned police from there.

PLAN FOR BEAVER LAKE

Mother Goose Folk May Inhabit Woods

Goldilocks and her Three Bears, Humpty Dumpty sitting on his wall—and a full-size cow jumping over a fibreglass moon will materialize at Beaver Lake Park this summer if two enterprising students get their way.

Alfred Pettersen, 24, third-year education student at Victoria College, and Douglas Hackman, 19, a Grade 13 student from Vernon, are planning a children's Wooded Wonderland as a centennial project.

They will display 40 or 50 fribreglas figures of famous nursery rhyme characters such as Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary; Little Jack Horner; The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe; Jack and Jill and Little Miss Muffet.

The students hope to stage the attraction on two and a half acres of woodland between the entrance and exit roads to Beaver Lake on the Patricia Bay Highway.

But this will depend on their application to lease the land from Victoria city council. The application will be considered at Friday's council meeting.

"In view of the need for Centennial projects, we hope the council will co-operate," Mr. Pettersen said. "We want to make this a permanent summer attraction and we will spare no effort to make it a success."

COST $10,000

Cost of developing and operating Wooded Wonderland is estimated at $10,000. The fiberglas figures, with colored plastic covering, are being made by Vancouver sculptor Elek Imredy, while Mrs. Hazel Jones of Victoria is producing a number of small clay figures such as gnomes and rabbits.

Mr. Pettersen and Mr. Hackman will share the supervision of Wooded Wonderland during summer vacations. Their parents are putting up capital for the venture.

"There is a similar children's park at Revelstoke," Alfred said, "but the setting at Beaver Lake is much more suitable for this kind of attraction.".

McKenzie Avenue School Expansion Plans Studied

Plans are under consideration for the expansion of McKenzie Avenue school within the next few months.

Under a referendum approved by ratepayers last October, eight classrooms will be added, the activity room will be enlarged, extra washrooms will be installed and the playgrounds will be expanded.

Already five individual parcels of land have been acquired bordering on Margaret Street and McKenzie. This will increase the school site from 2.7 to approximately 4 acres.

City architect R. W. Siddall and the school board are examining alternative ways of adding to the existing building.

NEW COMMANDER of the Second Canadian Minesweeping Squadron based at Esquimalt is Lt.-Cmdr. A. Bruce Torrie, who was transferred here after serving in the destroyer HMCS Gatineau on the east coast. He also serves as commanding officer of HMCS Fortune.

Memorial Arena's Deficit One-Tenth Reported Figure

A Times report Wednesday noting a $28,000 deficit in Memorial Arena operations was somewhat more than 10 times wrong.

Actual deficit for the last seven months of 1961 was $2,540, instead of $28,342 as reported in error.

The latter figure was the total liabilities of the arena's operation, after subtraction of the deficit. It was balanced by an equal amount in total assets.

The Times regrets any embassassment to the arena management.

Demolition Of Houses Under Way

Construction of a major new hotel at the Roundabout is expected to start this spring as demolition of several buildings began this week to clear a site.

[illegible] Winecure, [illegible] Yates, owner of the fire-destroyed Monterey Restaurant, today admitted the work was aimed at "clearing the way" for a major project but he declined to say what it was.

However, persistent rumors of a $3,000,000 hotel gathered force as workmen began tearing down houses on Market Street, behind the restaurant site.

21 STOREYS

Usually reliable sources indicated that the new hotel would be a high-rise structure, possibly as high at 21 storeys and would boast a swimming pool on the roof.

A beer parlor would front on Market, where the houses are coming down now, while a service station would be located on the tip of the property's Hillside-Douglas corner.

Houses being demolished now, owned by Bali Kudra who is an associate of Mr. Winecure's, are at 715, 723 and 731 Market.

A demolition permit also has been taken out for another two-storey house, at the corner of Market and Douglas, which is owned by Mr. Winecure.

'ON ITS WAY'

Mr. Winecure said he hopes to be able to make a concrete statement in a few weeks "because what we are planning appears to be on its way." He would elaborate no further.

In order to raise mortgage money from financial institutions for the project, the developers likely would have to put up about 10 per cent themselves.

It is understood that $140,000 has been committed by the mortgagor of the Monterey Restaurant and that a further $30,000 has been obtained in advance from a lease of the corner tip for a service station.

Surface Lots For Parking To Come First

Surface parking lots likely will be established first before two proposed civic off-street parking garages are erected downtown.

This probability emerged today as members of the city's advisory parking committee awaited scheduling of a meeting to decide the "build or clear" problem.

Downtown ratepayers last year approved a $1,115,000 bylaw for construction of a 400-car garage on View, between Blanshard and Douglas, and a 200-car garage in the Bastion Square area.

But, since then, several persons have suggested it would be wiser to buy the sites, demolish buildings to clear them and establish surface parking lots to test the demand at those locations.

One informed source today indicated that feeling among committee members is leaning towards this direction.

Another close observer pointed out even if buildings were put up quickly, there probably still would be a short period for testing the locations with surface lots.

'TRADE PARTNERSHIP'

JFK Outlines Tariff Program

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Kennedy today unveiled his demands on Congress for vast tariff-bargaining power, describing them as stepping stones to "an open trade partnership" between North America and western Europe to frustrate Communist dreams of shattering the West through trade wars.

"It is time now to write a new chapter in the evolution of the Atlantic community," Kennedy said in a 5,000-word trade message requesting power to eliminate U.S. tariffs on a broad range of industrial goods and to reduce other rates by half during a period of five years or more.

Reductions would be reciprocal. Negotiations would be directed mainly at the Common Market but bargains made would be extended to all the free world. However, where big traders, such as Canada, obtained major benefits, the U.S. would expect "compensating concessions" in return, Kennedy said.

"Nuisance" tariffs—five per cent or less — would be withdrawn. This would be of particular help to Canadian exporters of aluminum, copper and nickel.

But officials said the U.S. would reserve the right to refuse to negotiate on such highly-sensitive products as oil, lead, zinc and certain agricultural products strongly protected by import quotas and other curbs. They said this reservation would be used sparingly.

Canada gets into the U.S. oil market without quotas. Other suppliers are restricted.

WOULD AID INDUSTRIES

Financial aid would be given to U.S. workers and industries He listed payments for workers who lose jobs and tax benefits for industries.

In negotiations with the Common Market—which Kennedy expects Britain will enter—the U.S. would seek complete elimination of duties on those categories of goods in which the U.S. and the Common Market combined supply at least 80 per cent of world trade. Officials said these would include automobiles, trucks, aircraft, heavy industrial machinery, electrical equipment and some consumer goods.

U.S. exports of these goods to the Common Market and Britain currently average about $2,000,000,000 a year. Total U.S. exports are about $20,000,000,000 annually. The Common Market is the biggest U.S. customer. Canada is second.

Kennedy said his administration would be negotiating not only for the U.S. but would be seeking to reduce Common Market walls for Canada, Japan and other trading partners.

TWO FERRY CONTRACTS AWARDED

Contracts for two new B.C. government ferries have been awarded, according to today's Speech from the Throne, although shipyard officials said they had not been notified.

The Throne Speech said the contracts, for ferries to serve the Departure Bay-Horseshoe Bay route formerly operated by the Black-Ball line, "have already been awarded."

It was earlier virtually assured that the contracts, worth $7,000,000, would both go to Victoria Machinery Depot, lowest bidder.

However, Harold Husband, president of the company, said he had not yet been notified of the contract decision.

RUSK AT OAS

Searing Attack On Castro

(Times News Service)

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay—The United States in a searing indictment of Castro communism appealed to the other American states today for a four-pronged counter-attack to save the hemisphere from the ravages of global Red assault.

State Secretary Dean Rusk told the inter-American foreign ministers' conference considering the threat of Cuba's communism that the Americas need a shield to protect democratic processes if the Alliance for Progress program is to succeed in its attack on the hemisphere's economic ills.

Rusk called on the 19 American states to (1) declare Castro communism incompatible with the inter-American system, (2) exclude the Havana government from participation in the Organization of American States OAS, (3) interrupt the "limited but significant flow of trade between Cuba and the rest of the hemisphere," and (4) set in motion individual and communal acts of defence "against the various forms of political and indirect aggression mounted against the hemisphere."

WORKMEN shielded themselves with sheets of aluminum this week as they battled oil well fire near Fort St. John, B.C., while awaiting arrival of Texas trouble-shooter Red Adair. Fire was put out by Adair today.

WALKS INTO FLAMES

Tough Texan Snuffs Wild Oil Well Fire

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—A wild oil well fire which has blazed almost a week in the northern bushland was snuffed out today by Red Adair, recognized as the world's foremost oil well fireman.

Adair, 46, flown to the site of the blazing Blueberry well from Algiers by the Sun Oil Company, walked into the flames clad in an asbestos suit.

He chained down the "Christmas tree" pipe apparatus at the wellhead which had been loose and leaking.

This cut off most of the wellhead flames. The big Texan firefighter then used soda and mud to pack around the base of the wellhead apparatus to snuff out the fire.

Then he simply turned a valve which stopped the flow of oil and gas from below and the flames died away at Blueberry 29 where the fire sprang up Friday.

It had been planned to use a dynamite blast to snuff out the flames if this method had failed.

One awe-struck roughneck who witnessed the performance said: "If Adair is sent to Hell he won't burn."

It was the second asbestos-suit walk into the flames in as many days for the barrel-chested Texan. He took a first look at the blaze belching from the well among a maze of wellhead pipes Wednesday.

Rifle Used In Bid to Blow Valve

Adair walked into the blaze after he and Sid White of Jasper, Alta., another top fire fighter, were only partially successful in attempts to redirect the flames by means of a rifle.

The fire, which started Friday, was burning steadily, sending gigantic fireballs up every three minutes.

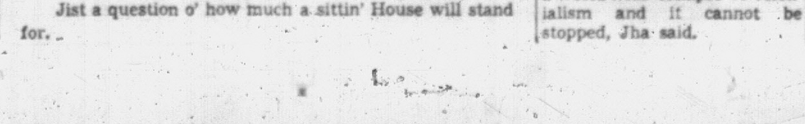
Adair and White first tried to shoot off the main valve with the high-powered rifle.

They crouched behind an aluminum shield taking turns pumping bullets at the valve, less than half the size of a man's fist. They wanted to blow off the valve, on the side of the main stem, so the flames would shoot out sideways. They failed to shoot off the valve but managed to open a hole in the pipe lower down.

Adair then walked into the flames carrying a six-foot shield of corrugated aluminum in one hand to ward off the flames. Stooping to the ground to avoid the fire balls, he used a 30-foot-long pipe to turn off the valve as far as it would go. He attached a cable to a feeder pipe which was then pulled away by a bulldozer.

M. E. Austin, Sun field supervisor, said the company has spent about $100,000 fighting the fire.

"I don't know what Adair is going to charge us, but he's worth it."



Whut Mister Rusk wants is t' make them Cuban heels toe th' line.

NATO Aid Under Fire

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—India said today NATO's support is enabling Portugal to maintain colonial control over Angola and other African territories.

Indian Ambassador C. S. Jha told the 16th United Nations General Assembly colonialism in its "most virulent" form is being practised by Portugal in Angola and "it has got to go."

Jha said that of the 15 NATO allies, only Norway has announced it will refuse arms to Portugal. Jha maintained that all the evidence indicates Portugal used NATO arms to subdue uprisings in its big West African territories.

He quoted various sources to support his statement that wholesale slaughter had been inflicted on the Angolans by Portuguese troops.

India, which pushed Portugal out of Goa and two other small Portugal territories on the Indian sub-continent last month, believed that what is happening in Angola is part of a world-wide collapse of colonialism and it cannot be stopped, Jha said.

Throne Speech Pledges More Education Aid

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Government plans for a single agency to control electric power in B.C. were disclosed today in the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of the provincial legislature.

It will be called the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority and will be responsible for the generation and distribution of all public power in the province.

The Throne Speech did not say if this means the complete amalgamation of B.C. Electric and the B.C. Power Commission.

But presumably this will happen; or at least the two Crown agencies will be administered as "wings" of the new overall authority.

Premier Bennett said legislation setting up the authority will be introduced after his budget speech Feb. 9.

Power dominated the speech, read this afternoon at the official opening ceremony of the session by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

It also disclosed plans for even bigger reductions in electric light bills than expected. The rate cuts, throughout the province, will be "very substantial" and will come in April.

Also in the field of power, the Throne Speech predicted a construction start on the Columbia River project early this year, and assumed it is a foregone conclusion that the federal government will give in to Premier Bennett and allow sale of power benefits to the U.S.

Bigger Education Grants

There will also be big developments in the field of education. The speech predicts bigger grants to universities and school districts, expansion of vocational training, creation of a dental faculty at the University of B.C., and expansion of medical facilities.

Other Throne Speech highlights include:

- A new department of water resources;
- Promise that a royal commission into workmen's compensation will be set up;
- Unspecified legislation on wages paid in the province, believed to be an increase in the Minimum Wage Act;
- "Substantial" increases in grants to Victoria College and the University of B.C., as well as to local school districts;
- New laws affecting administration of municipalities, implementing recommendations of the Chant Royal Commission on Education, revising the organization of magistrate's courts, planning celebration of Canada's centenary in 1967;
- Bigger spending on tourist promotion, housing for elderly citizens, farm assistance;
- Expansion of hospitals, parks, and improvements to Oakalla prison farm;
- Bigger revenues from mining, pipelines and the PGE railway.

Speculation on Power Head

The Throne Speech promised plenty of debate this session on power.

The most far-reaching move will be the creation of the new overall power authority, which has already touched off speculation as to who will head it—Dr. H. L. Keenleyside of B.C. Hydro or Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of B.C. Electric.

There was no mention in the speech of the promised change-over in Greater Victoria, where B.C. Hydro was to take over all B.C. Electric operations in April.

This plan may now have been discarded in favor of the province-wide takeover of public power by the new agency.

The Throne Speech said the authority would "facilitate" the promised rate reductions and also "improve even more the administrative efficiency of the Crown agencies involved"—B.C. Hydro and B.C. Electric.

"This authority will be assigned responsibility for the generation and distribution of all public power within the province for construction of a provincial power grid, and for the consignment of power to a national grid when required," said the speech.

Creation of the new department of water resources is in recognition of the importance of the field and the "high professional status" of the present water rights branch, said the speech.

The department will still be under the jurisdiction of the present lands and forests department, of which Ray Williston is minister, but it will be called the department of lands, forests and water resources.

This will mean appointment of a new deputy minister, probably present water rights comptroller A. F. Paget.

In the field of education "substantial increases" in grants to the universities and school districts were promised, together with new vocational training facilities at Nanaimo, Kelowna, Prince George, Nelson and Vancouver.

Money will be allotted in the budget for the new dental faculty at UBC.

Just Another 'Toy' Pistol To Tot, Storekeeper Dead

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—There was mutual admiration between Mrs. Ruth Wicker and four-year-old Bobby Preusser.

She thought he was cute dressed up in his cowboy garb. He thought her store had the best bubble gum in town.

Mrs. Wicker always gave Bobby gum when he came into the store. She even let him go behind the counter and get it himself.

Bobby, in a cowboy hat, boots and blue jeans, skipped in at his mother's side Wednesday. Mrs. Wicker, as usual, gave him permission to get a piece of gum while his mother shopped. Bobby dashed behind the counter but stopped short.

Something caught his eye he had not seen before. It was an old revolver on a shelf.

Bobby likes toy pistols. He has a box full of them at home. The pistol on the shelf did not look any different.

He picked it up, pointed it and pulled the trigger. The pistol fired. The bullet hit Mrs. Wicker in the stomach.

"He shot me! Call an ambulance," she cried.

But she was dead on arrival at a hospital 20 minutes later.

Bobby's mother, Mrs. R. W. Preusser, said he had never seen a real gun in his life.

Bobby could not understand what happened. He just buried his head in his mother's lap while she talked to police.

... CASTRO

as Brazil and several other countries pushed a drive to soften hemispheric retaliation against Cuban communism.

The Brazilian campaign indicated there was little hope of unanimous decisive action by the 20 American states sitting in judgment on the Havana government.

Rusk labelled Castro and the Cuban Communists "smirking sycophants" of Moscow and declared:

"What we cannot accept and will never accept is the use of Cuba as a means through which extra-continental powers seek to break up the inter-American system, to overthrow governments of other countries and to destroy the autonomous democratic revolution of the hemisphere.

"The Castro regime has extended the global battle to Latin America. It has supplied Communism with a bridgehead in the Americas, and it has thereby brought the entire hemisphere into the front line of the struggle between Communism and democracy. It has [illegible] into an arsenal for arms and ammunition from the Communist world."

Centennial Flashback . . .

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA · 1862

JANUARY 25

Rumors were circulating that the gale which struck three days ago had sunk the schooner Meg Merriles, on her way from Barkley Sound to Victoria, in the Race Rocks area, but there was no way of confirming them.

★ ★ ★

A very disappointing gold dust shipment of only $2,700 left via the steamer Cortes for San Francisco. Mail was also light. There were 20 passengers.

★ ★ ★

The jury in the embezzlement trial of former colony treasurer George T. Gordon found him guilty on two of three counts, not guilty on the other.

★ ★ ★

The schooner Nonpareil sailed for the Stikeen River via the inlets of the northwest coast of British Columbia. Also headed for a trading expedition in the same area is the steamer Labouchere, which intends to leave next week.
